County Board OKs School Transfers

Three school district transfers were made last night by the Pickaway County Board of Education.

The board adopted resolutions shifting Wayne Twp. and a portion of Washington Twp. School Districts to Circleville City School District, and New Holland District to the Fayette County, Miami Trace School District.

The board, with President Howard Huston absent, voted without dissent to transfer the districts as ordered by the State Board of Education.

The transfer moves the entire Wayne Twp. District to Circleville. That includes 147 elementary pupils and about $2,254,707 in valuation. The New Holland transfer involves about 284 pupils and $2,934,259 in valuation.

* * *

TWENTY-FIVE students are involved in the Washington Twp. transfer. The portion of Washington Twp. shifted roughly is bounded by Route 22 on the south, Bolender-Pontius Road on the east, Pontius Road on the north and the Circleville Twp. line on the west. About 11 acres of land south of Route 22, comprising property owned by William Crist and George J. Myers, also is included in the territory transferred.

Valuation of the area is approximately $450,000.

Next step is the acceptance of the transferred territory by the Circleville and Fayette County Boards of Education They already have indicated they would accept the territory if transferred.

The transfers are the outgrowth of consolidation moves by the county board. The areas involved, fought against becoming a part of newly-consolidated Westfall and Logan Elm Districts, carrying their fight to the state board of education which voted for the transfers.

26 Kidnaped Persons from Airliner Freed

Fighter Pilot Feared To Have Landed Inside North Korean Border

OSAN, Korea (AP) — Communist batteries shot down an American Sabre Jet near the Korean truce line today and the pilot reportedly parachuted just over the Communist side of the line. The North Koreans at the time were releasing 2 American pilots and 24 passengers from a South Korean airliner hijacked 18 days ago.

The first brief Air Force announcement on the jet fighter did not say whether the pilot who bailed out was seen to hit the ground safely.

A second F86 accompanying the downed Sabre returned to its base. The pilot reported he saw the lead aircraft get hit and crash, and saw a parachute floating toward the ground just over the Communist side of the line.

The two Sabres were on a low-level simulated ground support mission about 65 miles northeast of Seoul. Under standing orders they are forbidden to fly over the 2½-mile-wide demilitarized zone that stretches across the peninsula separating North from South Korea.

* * *

THE AIR FORCE withheld th names of both pilots.

Planes from the crashed Sabre's base at Osan, where Americans first battled the Communists in the Korean War, searched the southern fringes of the zone from aloft but failed to spot the lost flier.

The 26 returnees, who included a West German businessman, his wife and 22 South Koreans, were turned over at the Panmunjom truce headquarters after Allied representatives gave the Communists receipts for them.

The 26 were taken by bus to the U. N. base camp in the neutral zone for a medical checkup.

The two American pilots of the airliner, Willis P. Hobbs of Vallejo, Calif., and Air Force Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan of Buchanuc, Mich., appeared in perfect health and smiled broadly as they climbed aboard the U. N. bus.

South Korea charged Red agents took over the Korean National Airlines plane in flight. The plane had been on a regular flight from Pusan to Seoul.

One of the Korean passengers, Maj. Chung Moo Yung, confirmed that the plant was seized by Communist agents. The major said he and another Korean were hurt during the struggle on the plane.

Moonwatch Crew Searching for Missing Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Moonwatch teams geared themselves today for a sky search for the Army's newly launched and mysteriously missing satellite Explorer II.

At the same time the conviction grew that the six-inch metal cylinder, 80 inches long and weighing about 32 pounds, never achieved an orbit.

There were persistent reports that signals from the Jupiter-C launching rocket convinced some Army missile experts, within the first hour after Wednesday's firing at 1:28 p. m., that the final stage of the four-stage vehicle had failed to fire.

Officials of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency and of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which built the high speed upper stages, were unavailable for comment. Wernher von Braun, German-born head of the Army space program, left for Huntsville, Ala., before reporters could question him.

* * *

EXPERTS SAID that failure of the final stage to fire on cue would have meant that the satellite, even though it was at orbital altitude of 200 or more miles, would achieve a velocity of only about three miles a second as against the five miles a second needed to maintain an orbit — 10,800 miles an hour instead of 18,000.

This in turn could mean that the satellite would tumble into the South Atlantic, or into Africa or the Indian Ocean beyond.

The cylinder would have traveled less than halfway around the world before tumbling down through the atmosphere.

Army sources said that if the final satellite stage failed to fire properly and no orbit was achieved, the missile's speed would have been insufficient to cause it to burn up from atmospheric friction on the descent. They said it might break apart from the stresses of such a fall, however, and return to earth in shattered pieces.

In Washington Wednesday night Dr. Richard Porter, chairman of the earth satellite panel of the U.S. National Committee for the International Geophysical Year, told newsmen there was "some indication that the satellite is not functioning normally."

Porter said there had been indications from the minitrack radio tracking station here and at one

Block on SUB Pay Sought

Ohio Attorney General Plans Plea in Court

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Atty. Gen. William Saxbe's office said today he would request a stay of execution on payment of Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) at the request of the O'Neill administration.

Aides said Saxbe recommended against asking an order to block SUB payments during an appeal from a Mahoning County common pleas court decision holding that they could be made. They emphasized that Saxbe took no position against an appeal.

The attorney general expressed belief that SUB payments now would help unemployed workers in position to receive them. If such payments were delayed pending final court determination on the question several months from now Saxbe felt many workers no longer might need them.

Saxbe said that even if higher courts overruled the trial court, SUB payments made during the litigation period would not cost the state anything.

* * *

THE TRIAL court held Wednesday that SUB payments could be made to eligible workers without reducing state jobless benefits they received.

The decision went against an order by James R. Tichenor, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation that SUB payments must be deducted from unemployment benefits paid by the state.

Aiding the BUC defense was the Ohio Information Committee, an organization made up largely of employers and with headquarters in Columbus. The OIC was formed in 1955 to oppose (which it did successfully) a CIO effort to win voter approval in referendum for SUB and a hike of state unemployment insurance maximum payments to $50.

Bulganin Sends Ike New Note

Letter Believed Tied To Summit Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Bulganin sent a new message to President Eisenhower today on problems of arranging a summit conference.

Soviet Embassador Mikhail Menshikov delivered the message to Secretary of State Dulles for relay to the President.

The message replies to Eisenhower's last letter to Bulganin on Feb. 15.

The Eisenhower letter suggested that leading Soviet citizens come to the United States and see firsthand what this country is like.

Menshikov said a few days ago that he thought the more high level visits there were the better. His words indicated possible Bulganin acceptance of Eisenhower's proposal.

Menshikov said the Bulganin reply "deals with the questions" raised in Eisenhower's Feb. 15 letter. He declined to give any other detail.

MEANWHILE, it was learned the United States has notified Russia that the Western Powers intend to ask for a meeting of the United Nations Disarmament Commission this month.

The move is designed to test the Soviet Union's declared intention of boycotting the commission. If the Soviets refuse to cooperate, the Western powers then will take the issue of disarmament negotiations into the United Nations Security Council.

The plan was developed in consultation with NATO allies. It was put in final form in Paris last week.

The Western governments decided that the whole operation should be handled in a friendly manner so the Soviets would have evidence that the Western powers are not simply trying to embarrass them.

The 25-member U.N. Disarmament Commission was created by the General Assembly late last year after the final breakdown of disarmament talks in a U.N. subcommittee made up of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

A-Scientists Tell of Bounce By Mountain

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is disclosing today some of the secrets of what happened inside a mountain that was bounced six inches by an atomic explosion last September.

Newsmen were on hand to inspect for the first time the tunnel leading to the inferno-like chamber in which the blast was set off 800 feet below the top of an isolated desert mesa. At the end of the 2,000-foot-long tunnel are several holes which scientists have drilled into the blast chamber.

When the underground atomic blast was set off Sept. 19, scientists at more than 600 earthquake recording stations were waiting at their seismographs. They hoped to learn what the earth is made of by studying the patterns of shockwaves as they raced through the various strata of the globe.

To a large extent, they were disappointed.

AEC scientists announced shortly after the September explosion that all radiation had been contained within the mountain chamber. Extreme radiation hazards will prevent humans from going inside for at least a century.

Westfall Report Received by Board

The records of the eight merging school districts in the newly consolidated Westfall School District were reported to be generally in good order today by the State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

Former districts examined by the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices under Rhodes' direction include Darby, Deercreek, Jackson, Monroe, Muhlenberg, Perry, New Holland and Wayne Local School Districts.

New Holland and Wayne districts are not officially a part of the new Westfall district, the reports note, because of the issuance of temporary restraining orders. A taxpayer's petition against creation of the new district was filed from New Holland district and from Wayne district. The subsequent restraining order was modified by the court in order to permit payments of salaries and current operating bills of all districts involved in the proposed merger.

All assets and liabilities of the original school districts were assigned to the newly created district. The financial statement fo Westfall district from last Dec. 5 through Jan. 27 shows total transfers of $102,501.71. Disbursements amounted to $52,479.58, leaving a balance of $50,022.13 on Jan. 27.

Members of the board of the new district are Raymond Reiterman of near Mt. Sterling; H. N. Stevenson, of near Circleville; Everett Grabill of Orient; Dr. Paul Fenstermaker and Hoyt Martin of Williamsport. Brice Connell, of Derby, is the clerk.

Body of Ashville Woman, 35, Discovered in Wooded Area

Mrs. Charlotte Roese, 35, Route 2, Ashville, mother of three children, missing since noon yesterday, was found dead today with bullet wounds in the chest and head.

The body was found at about 10 a. m. in a wooded area on the Edward Kuhlwein farm, Route 1, Lockbourne, about one mile south of Duvall. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. L. C. Schiff, Ashville.

Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff, also on the scene, said the incident was suicide. Dr. Schiff said death probably came within a matter of seconds after the shots were fired.

Examination of the body revealed a wound in the chest which probably struck the heart and apparently two wounds in the skull. The shot or shots entered the forehead and lodged in the skull.

The bullets were from a .45 caliber Army-type pistol. Mrs. Roese was found lying face down with the gun in her right hand. The automatic type weapon was cocked and ready to fire again.

* * *

AFTER REMOVING the gun it was found that a cartridge remained in the chamber and one in the magazine. One empty cartridge was found near the body.

Mrs. Roese's body was found by James Kuhlwein, farm owner. He and his son, Edward, said they had noticed a car parked in the woods yesterday afternoon but thought it belonged to hunters.

Seeing the car there again this morning they decided to investigate. Driving back to the woods, about a half mile from the highway, Kuhlwein discovered the body lying about 29 feet to the rear of the car. He immediately notified the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

Mrs. Roese had been the center of a widespread search since yesterday afternoon. According to the sheriff's department, she

Ohio County Fairs Given State Funds

COLUMBUS (AP) — Dr. James R. Hay, state agriculture director, today announced first distribution from the Ohio Fairs Fund to the state fair and county and independent fairs amounted to $453,000.

The fund is made up of receipts from a one-half of one per cent tax on pari-mutuel wagering on harness and running races. The tax went into effect last June 11. When the tax is collected for a full season of racing it is expected to amount to about $600,000.

Today's distribution was on this basis: $1,954 for general operations, $1,954 for purse money for horse racing, $391 for expense in conducting horse racing and $1,563 for conducting colt stakes. When the taxes are collected for an entire year, the respective amounts will be: $2,500, $2,500, $500 and $2,000.

The Ohio State Fair received the largest amount today, $46,914, for colt stakes. When the tax is collected for the entire year, the amount will rise to $60,000.

All of the county fairs did not apply for money available.

Hocking, $4,300.
Pickaway, $4,300.
Van Wert, $5,864.
Clinton, $5,864.

Unhappy with God, Boy Burns Church

LONDON (AP) — An 11-year-old boy says he set fire to a church because God made him unhappy.

The boy's mother died when he was a baby.

Police Detective Edward Anning said in court the boy told him: "The reason I did it is I am unhappy. I lay in bed and wondered why God has made me unhappy. So I decided to burn His church."

The blaze caused more than $500 damage.

Coffee Break Given Legal Job Status

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Supreme Court has ruled that injuries a worker suffers during a coffee break can be considered as occurring on the job.

The court ruled Wednesday in the case of Mrs. Phyllis A. Clifford, 46, Worcester, an employe of the Worcester Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Mrs. Clifford was awarded $1,860. She fell downstairs while going for a coffee break in 1952. She lost no time from work, although badly bruised.

In 1955, she stopped work because of trouble with her back. A month later she underwent a fusion of her spine.

10 Canadians Feared Trapped by River

MONTREAL (AP) — The swirling waters of the Rivieres des Prairies, swollen by a spring thaw, surged into a steel cofferdam Wednesday as it buckled under ice pressure, trapping a construction crew deep inside.

Paul Dufresne, president of the Dufresne Construction Co., estimated that "about 10 or possibly 11" workers were killed.

The temporary dam had been sunk into the river bottom off Montreal Island's north shore so the crew could lay the foundations for a six-lane toll bridge.

State Shuns Coal Firm's Land Offer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Department of Natural Resources today turned down a proposal by the Sunnyhill Coal Co. of Columbus that would have given the state 3,400 acres of land in Athens County in exchange for the right to strip-mine 1,000 acres of state land in the Lake Hope area.

The department's director, Col. Herbert Eagon, received approval of the Natural Resources Commission today before mailing the turndown letter to the coal firm.

Eagon said disadvantages outweighed the advantages. He pointed out stripmining would mean loss of trees at the area and lessen attractiveness of Lake Hope State Park.

The commission also recommended at its monthly meeting that eight tracts of land at Grand Lake-St. Marys in Auglaize and Mercer counties be sold, and that four other tracts be reconsidered for possible sale. Private cottages are on most of the land.

The commission decided that no state land at Guilford Lake in Columbiana County will be sold.

Later this month, a commission committee will inspect Lake Loramie in Shelby County where the Division of Parks has recommended four tracts be sold.

Compromise with Rayburn Needed in Succession Fuss

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration may have to compromise with House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) if it expects to get congressional action on the presidential disability issue.

Although bipartisan support has developed in the Senate for a proposed constitutional amendment which President Eisenhower and Atty. Gen. Rogers endorsed Wednesday, Senate Democratic Leader Lydon B. Johnson of Texas displayed no enthusiasm for scheduling action on it.

Johnson is reported to have told colleagues he prefers to wait until the House acts. Rayburn not only says a constitutional amendment is not needed, but disagrees with Eisenhower's ideas on other phases of the problem.

Eisenhower and Rogers agreed that if the President became incapacitated, Vice President Nixon could step in to carry on the presidential duties without taking any new oath or becoming more than an acting president. They said this could include the signing or vetoing of legislation.

* * *

BY THEIR theory, when the President decided he was well enough he could take over again and Nixon would drop back to his present status as vice president. That is the essence of a working agreement between them.

Rayburn, who as Speaker of the House of Representatives would succeed to the presidency after the vice president, has stuck by the contention that under present law, a vice president who assumed duties of the office would have to take a presidential oath and in fact become president, after which his predecessor could not reclaim the office.

Rayburn has said the whole matter, which involves designating who shall decide when a president is incapacitated and when he has recovered, can be cleared up by an act of Congress. Eisenhower and Rogers said a constitutional amendment is necessary.

The bipartisan amendment proposal which Eisenhower endorsed would permit a recovered president to reclaim his powers on seven days notice, unless the vice president disputed his claim to recovery and was upheld by a two-thirds vote in both houses.

Future Man To Have No Hair, Toes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Man 65 centuries from now may have a hairless head, spindly legs and no toes.

A University of Southern California biology professor, Jay M. Savage, said these are "evolutionary possibilities" for around 8500 A.D.

"Not only are toes getting shorter," he said, "but the little toe has practically no function any more."

Primitive man needed toes for balance, clutching and grasping, he said, but frostbite victims have demonstrated that modern man can balance himself with only a big toe.

Hair was meant to shield man from the elements, Savage said. But with hats, houses, umbrellas and closed cars, who needs hair? Baldness is increasing among men and may eventually include women, he said.

With expanding mechanization, legs will get less use and could become spindly, he added.

Titan, ICBM Passes Captive Test OK

DENVER (AP)—A new tool for the U.S. scientific and military arsenal got its baptism Wednesday.

Martin Co. technicians test-fired the propulsion system of the Titan intercontinental ballistic missile being manufactured at Martin's foothills plant under a $358 million Air Force contract.

The brief captive test was termed successful, a Martin spokesman said.

How many more tests are required before final acceptance is not known. But the latest firing suggested that the Titan may be about ready for actual firing at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Record Rainfall Hits Major Hawaiian Isle

HONOLULU (AP) — Record-breaking rains deluged Hawaii's principal island of Oahu Wednesday night and brought some floods.

With no relief in sight before this afternoon, the Weather Bureau recorded 10.68 inches of rain at Honolulu Airport in 16 hours—breaking a four-year record.

The storm flooded homes, forced postponement of at least 19 Military Air Transport Service flights, and put a big radio station off the air for 18 hours.

County Board OKs School Transfers

Three school district transfers were made last night by the Pickaway County Board of Education.

The board adopted resolutions shifting Wayne Twp. and a portion of Washington Twp. School Districts to Circleville City School District, and New Holland District to the Fayette County, Miami Trace School District.

The board, with President Howard Huston absent, voted without dissent to transfer the districts as ordered by the State Board of Education.

The transfer moves the entire Wayne Twp. District to Circleville. That includes 147 elementary pupils and about $2,254,707 in valuation. The New Holland transfer involves about 284 pupils and $2,934,259 in valuation.

* * *

TWENTY-FIVE students are involved in the Washington Twp. transfer. The portion of Washington Twp. shifted roughly is bounded by Route 22 on the south, Bolender-Pontius Road on the east, Pontius Road on the north and the Circleville Twp. line on the west. About 11 acres of land south of Route 22, comprising property owned by William Crist and George J. Myers, also is included in the territory transferred. Valuation of the area is approximately $450,000.

Next step is the acceptance of the transferred territory by the Circleville and Fayette County Boards of Education They already have indicated they would accept the territory if transferred.

The transfers are the outgrowth of consolidation moves by the county board. The areas involved, fought against becoming a part of newly-consolidated Westfall and Logan Elm Districts, carrying their fight to the state board of education which voted for the transfers.

State Shuns Coal Firm's Land Offer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Department of Natural Resources today turned down a proposal by the Sunnyhill Coal Co. of Columbus that would have given the state 3,400 acres of land in Athens County in exchange for the right to strip-mine 1,000 acres of state land in the Lake Hope area.

The department's director, Col. Herbert Eagon, received approval of the Natural Resources Commission today before mailing the turndown letter to the coal firm.

Eagon said disadvantages outweighed the advantages. He pointed out stripmining would mean loss of trees at the area and lessen attractiveness of Lake Hope State Park.

The commission also recommended at its monthly meeting that eight tracts of land at Grand Lake-St. Marys in Auglaize and Mercer counties be sold, and that four other tracts be reconsidered for possible sale. Private cottages are on most of the land.

The commission decided that no state land at Guilford Lake in Columbiana County will be sold.

Later this month, a commission committee will inspect Lake Loramie in Shelby County where the Division of Parks has recommended four tracts be sold.

Block on SUB Pay Sought

Ohio Attorney General Plans Plea in Court

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Atty. Gen. William Saxbe's office said today he would request a stay of execution on payment of Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) at the request of the O'Neill administration.

Aides said Saxbe recommended against asking an order to block SUB payments during an appeal from a Mahoning County common pleas court decision holding that they could be made. They emphasized that Saxbe took no position against an appeal.

The attorney general expressed belief that SUB payments now would help unemployed workers in position to receive them. If such payments were delayed pending final court determination on the question several months from now Saxbe felt many workers no longer might need them.

Saxbe said that even if higher courts overruled the trial court, SUB payments made during the litigation period would not cost the state anything.

* * *

THE TRIAL court held Wednesday that SUB payments could be made to eligible workers without reducing state jobless benefits they received.

The decision went against an order by James R. Tichenor, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation that SUB payments must be deducted from unemployment benefits paid by the state.

Aiding the BUC defense was the Ohio Information Committee, an organization made up largely of employers and with headquarters in Columbus. The OIC was formed in 1955 to oppose (which it did successfully) a CIO effort to win voter approval in referendum for SUB and a hike of state unemployment insurance maximum payments to $50.

Compromise with Rayburn Needed in Succession Fuss

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration may have to compromise with House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) if it expects to get congressional action on the presidential disability issue.

Although bipartisan support has developed in the Senate for a proposed constitutional amendment which President Eisenhower and Atty. Gen. Rogers endorsed Wednesday, Senate Democratic Leader Lydon B. Johnson of Texas displayed no enthusiasm for scheduling action on it.

Johnson is reported to have told colleagues he prefers to wait until the House acts. Rayburn not only says a constitutional amendment is not needed, but disagrees with Eisenhower's ideas on other phases of the problem.

Eisenhower and Rogers agreed that if the President became incapacitated, Vice President Nixon could step in to carry on the presidential duties without taking any new oath or becoming more than an acting president. They said this could include the signing or vetoing of legislation.

* * *

BY THEIR theory, when the President decided he was well enough he could take over again and Nixon would drop back to his present status as vice president. That is the essence of a working agreement between them.

Rayburn, who as Speaker of the House of Representatives would succeed to the presidency after the vice president, has stuck by the contention that under present law, a vice president who assumed duties of the office would have to take a presidential oath and in fact become president, after which his predecessor could not reclaim the office.

Rayburn has said the whole matter, which involves designating who shall decide when a president is incapacitated and when he has recovered, can be cleared up by an act of Congress. Eisenhower and Rogers said a constitutional amendment is necessary.

The bipartisan amendment proposal which Eisenhower endorsed would permit a recovered president to reclaim his powers on seven days notice, unless the vice president disputed his claim to recovery and was upheld by a two-thirds vote in both houses.

26 Kidnaped Persons from Airliner Freed

Fighter Pilot Feared To Have Landed Inside North Korean Border

OSAN, Korea (AP) — Communist batteries shot down an American Sabre Jet near the Korean truce line today and the pilot reportedly parachuted just over the Communist side of the line. The North Koreans at the time were releasing 2 American pilots and 24 passengers from a South Korean airliner hijacked 18 days ago.

The first brief Air Force announcement on the jet fighter did not say whether the pilot who bailed out was seen to hit the ground safely.

A second F86 accompanying the downed Sabre returned to its base. The pilot reported he saw the lead aircraft get hit and crash, and saw a parachute floating toward the ground just over the Communist side of the line.

The two Sabres were on a low-level simulated ground support mission about 65 miles northeast of Seoul. Under standing orders they are forbidden to fly over the 2½-mile-wide demilitarized zone that stretches across the peninsula separating North from South Korea.

* * *

THE AIR FORCE withheld th names of both pilots.

Planes from the crashed Sabre's base at Osan, where Americans first battled the Communists in the Korean War, searched the southern fringes of the zone from aloft but failed to spot the lost flier.

The 26 returnees, who included a West German businessman, his wife and 22 South Koreans, were turned over at the Panmunjom truce headquarters after Allied representatives gave the Communists receipts for them.

The 26 were taken by bus to the U. N. base camp in the neutral zone for a medical checkup.

The two American pilots of the airliner, Willis P. Hobbs of Vallejo, Calif., and Air Force Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan of Buchanuc, Mich., appeared in perfect health and smiled broadly as they climbed aboard the U. N. bus.

South Korea charged Red agents took over the Korean National Airlines plane in flight. The plane had been on a regular flight from Pusan to Seoul.

One of the Korean passengers, Maj. Chung Moo Yung, confirmed that the plant was seized by Communist agents. The major said he and another Korean were hurt during the struggle on the plane.

Future Man To Have No Hair, Toes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Man 65 centuries from now may have a hairless head, spindly legs and no toes.

A University of Southern California biology professor, Jay M. Savage, said these are "evolutionary possibilities" for around 8500 A.D.

"Not only are toes getting shorter," he said, "but the little toe has practically no function any more."

Primitive man needed toes for balance, clutching and grasping, he said, but frostbite victims have demonstrated that modern man can balance himself with only a big toe.

Hair was meant to shield man from the elements, Savage said. But with hats, houses, umbrellas and closed cars, who needs hair? Baldness is increasing among men and may eventually include women, he said.

With expanding mechanization, legs will get less use and could become spindly, he added.

Moonwatch Crew Searching for Missing Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Moonwatch teams geared themselves today for a sky search for the Army's newly launched and mysteriously missing satellite Explorer II.

At the same time the conviction grew that the six-inch metal cylinder, 80 inches long and weighing about 32 pounds, never achieved an orbit.

There were persistent reports that signals from the Jupiter-C launching rocket convinced some Army missile experts, within the first hour after Wednesday's firing at 1:28 p. m., that the final stage of the four-stage vehicle had failed to fire.

Officials of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency and of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which built the high speed upper stages, were unavailable for comment. Wernher von Braun, German-born head of the Army space program, left for Huntsville, Ala., before reporters could question him.

* * *

EXPERTS SAID that failure of the final stage to fire on cue would have meant that the satellite, even though it was at orbital altitude of 200 or more miles, would achieve a velocity of only about three miles a second as against the five miles a second needed to maintain an orbit — 10,800 miles an hour instead of 18,000.

This in turn could mean that the satellite would tumble into the South Atlantic, or into Africa or the Indian Ocean beyond.

The cylinder would have traveled less than halfway around the world before tumbling down through the atmosphere.

Army sources said that if the final satellite stage failed to fire properly and no orbit was achieved, the missile's speed would have been insufficient to cause it to burn up from atmospheric friction on the descent. They said it might break apart from the stresses of such a fall, however, and return to earth in shattered pieces.

In Washington Wednesday night Dr. Richard Porter, chairman of the earth satellite panel of the U.S. National Committee for the International Geophysical Year, told newsmen there was "some indication that the satellite is not functioning normally."

Porter said there had been indications from the minitrack radio tracking station here and at one

Bulganin Sends Ike New Note

Letter Believed Tied To Summit Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Bulganin sent a new message to President Eisenhower today on problems of arranging a summit conference.

Soviet Embassador Mikhail Menshikov delivered the message to Secretary of State Dulles for relay to the President.

The message replies to Eisenhower's last letter to Bulganin on Feb. 15.

The Eisenhower letter suggested that leading Soviet citizens come to the United States and see firsthand what this country is like.

Menshikov said a few days ago that he thought the more high level visits there were the better. His words indicated possible Bulganin acceptance of Eisenhower's proposal.

Menshikov said the Bulganin reply "deals with the questions" raised in Eisenhower's Feb. 15 letter. He declined to give any other detail.

MEANWHILE, it was learned the United States has notified Russia that the Western Powers intend to ask for a meeting of the United Nations Disarmament Commission this month.

The move is designed to test the Soviet Union's declared intention of boycotting the commission. If the Soviets refuse to cooperate, the Western powers then will take the issue of disarmament negotiations into the United Nations Security Council.

The plan was developed in consultation with NATO allies. It was put in final form in Paris last week.

The Western governments decided that the whole operation should be handled in a friendly manner so the Soviets would have evidence that the Western powers are not simply trying to embarrass them.

The 25-member U.N. Disarmament Commission was created by the General Assembly late last year after the final breakdown of disarmament talks in a U.N. subcommittee made up of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

Titan, ICBM Passes Captive Test OK

DENVER (AP)—A new tool for the U.S. scientific and military arsenal got its baptism Wednesday.

The brief captive test was termed successful, a Martin spokesman said.

How many more tests are required before final acceptance is not known. But the latest firing suggested that the Titan may be about ready for actual firing at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

A-Scientists Tell of Bounce By Mountain

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is disclosing today some of the secrets of what happened inside a mountain that was bounced six inches by an atomic explosion last September.

Newsmen were on hand to inspect for the first time the tunnel leading to the inferno-like chamber in which the blast was set off 800 feet below the top of an isolated desert mesa. At the end of the 2,000-foot-long tunnel are several holes which scientists have drilled into the blast chamber.

When the underground atomic blast was set off Sept. 19, scientists at more than 600 earthquake recording stations were waiting at their seismographs. They hoped to learn what the earth is made of by studying the patterns of shockwaves as they raced through the various strata of the globe.

To a large extent, they were disappointed.

AEC scientists announced shortly after the September explosion that all radiation had been contained within the mountain chamber. Extreme radiation hazards will prevent humans from going inside for at least a century.

Record Rainfall Hits Major Hawaiian Isle

HONOLULU (AP) — Record-breaking rains deluged Hawaii's principal island of Oahu Wednesday night and brought some floods.

With no relief in sight before this afternoon, the Weather Bureau recorded 10.68 inches of rain at Honolulu Airport in 16 hours—breaking a four-year record.

The storm flooded homes, forced postponement of at least 19 Military Air Transport Service flights, and put a big radio station off the air for 18 hours.

Petitions relative to a better railroad crossing protection at W. Main St. were discussed as well as traffic safety activities in cooperation with the Boy Scouts, a voluntary car inspection check lane, and bicycle safety activities.

New officers and committee chairman of the group include Win Story, president; Ed Frericks, vice president and chairman of Records and Statistics; Mrs. George Neff, secretary; Col. James Snyder, treasurer; George Hartman, Education; Miller Fissell, Enforcement; Henry McCrady, Engineering; James Snyder, Finance; J. I. left her home in South Bloomfield yesterday at 12:30 p. m.

She was last seen heading east on Route 316 toward Ashville driving a 1957 model car. Her disappearance was reported to the sheriff's department at 6:15 p. m. by Earl D. Boyer, a brother-in-law.

According to information received at the sheriff's office, Mrs. Roese had been under treatment for a mental condition.

* * *

SHERIFF'S deputies and auxiliaries immediately started a widespread search for the missing woman. Approximately 15 members of the department joined in the hunt. They traveled practically every road in Pickaway County most of the night but failed to find any trace of the woman.

Harold Johnson, an employe at the Kuhlwein farm, told Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff that he heard three shots yesterday at about 1:30 p. m., but thought they were fired by hunters in the woods. He said the shots came in rapid succession.

Deputy Radcliff said the woman probably fired the first shot into her chest. He said the other two shots apparently were fired as she fell to the ground.

The body was removed to the Bastian Funeral Home, Ashville, where funeral arrangements will be completed.

More Freeway Bids Are Sought

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highways will open bids March 18 for a 4½-mile section of Ohio 1 in Morrow County.

The section, which will cost about $6,700,000 to build, is about six miles southeast of Mount Gilead. It will be completed by Aug. 31, 1959 and connect freeway sections already under construction.

The department will open bids the same day for a traffic relief route at Doylestown in Wayne County. The project will cost about $3,400,000 and will include a grade separation with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for Ohio 5. The project will be five miles long.

Mamie's Kin Due To Testify In FCC Probe

Colonel Denies Using Any Influence in Miami TV Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Col. George Gordon Moore, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Eisenhower, will be given a chance to testify in a House investigation of alleged influence in the grant of a lucrative television license in Miami.

Moore denied that he had anything to do with the Federal Communications Commission's grant of TV Channel 10 to a National Airlines subsidiary headed by G. T. Baker, a friend of his.

But Moore wrote Rep. Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the investigating subcommittee, that he is willing to repeat his denial under oath.

"Of course the committee will give him that opportunity," Harris said, but added that no definite arrangements have been made.

The subcommittee hearings were in recess until Monday when Thurman A. Whiteside, Florida attorney, is expected back to finish testimony about his role in the Miami case and his financial favors to Richard A. Mack, who resigned under fire as an FCC commissioner earlier this week.

* * *

FRANK Katzentine, a Miami radio station owner who lost in a bid for Channel 10, has testified before the subcommittee that he heard Moore "engineered" the award to Public Service Television, Inc., the National Airlines subsidiary.

Baker has denied getting any help from Moore and has said pressure was exerted by Katzentine and others on Katzentine's behalf.

Despite Moore's denial, Representatives Peter Mack (D-Ill) and Williams (D-Miss) suggested that the subcommittee, on which both serve, inquire into Moore's relationship with George Gibbs, vice president of Public Service. Williams said he felt the matter "has a distinct bearing on the case in Miami."

Baker has charged that Democratic Senators Kefauver of Tennessee and Holland and Smathers of Florida pushed Katzentine's application with the FCC. All three senators have said they asked only that the case be decided on its merits and that they would be willing to testify before the House group if they are invited. Despite Republican demands that the senators be invited to appear, the subcommittee so far has issued no invitation.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) said today the committee will not invite testimony from the senators.

"We're not going to ask them to come over here and if I were the senators I wouldn't come voluntarily," Rayburn told newsmen.

"If a Senate committee asked me to go over there I would tell them to go dig potatoes deep."

Rayburn said the senators whose names have been mentioned during the House hearings have a forum of their own in which to testify if they wish.

other point that the fourth stage did not function.

"There is other information, however, that it probably did and that the difficulty is more probably in the radio transmission equipment," Porter added.

In Pasadena, Calif., Dr. William Pickering said there was every indication that the satellite was not functioning properly and that there was a probability that it was not in orbit.

* * *

PICKERING said it probably would take several days to interpret technical data sufficiently to find out what had happened.

In Cambridge, Mass., the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said it was alerting Moonwatch teams to be on the lookout for Explorer II even though it had not been determined whether it was in orbit.

If in an orbit, the satellite would not be visible in the United States until next week, the observatory said.

In Iowa City, Iowa, Dr. James Van Allen, who directed construction of decoding equipment in the satellite, said there were three possible reasons why the second satellite had not been located.

Van Allen said the satellite might not have achieved an orbit, might have gone into a different orbit than was expected, or might have sustained failure of its radio.

Even if Explorer II doesn't attain an orbit the Soviet and American sateflites already aloft will come back into periods of visibility, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory says.

Sputnik II, the Soviet dog statellite launched Nov. 3, continues to cross the United States half a dozen times a day. It will be visible again to this country this weekend. By the latter part of next week it should be a dramatic sight as it orbits across the nation in the morning twilight.

Explorer I, launched Jan. 31, continues to circle the earth in a band between 34 degrees north and 34 degrees south latitude. It never crosses the United States above the southern part of the nation from lower California to just below Cape Hatteras.

Dear, Dear; that Deer Insists on Big Crash

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP) — Matt Erschen and two other workers were holding a 7-by-10-foot plate glass ready for installation. They saw a deer bounding up the sidewalk toward them.

The men frantically waved at the animal.

The deer circled the big glass, crashed through a 5-by-6-foot window on the other side, and kept on going.

Kohler Probe Brings Loud, Angry Shouts

Senate Panel Hearing Atmosphere Bitter; Little Progress Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyman C. Conger, chief counsel for the Kohler Co., told the Senate Rackets Committee today he had been cursed in its hearing room by Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers union.

Conger's angry protest set off a round of heated shouting.

At one point Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) threatened UAW Atty. Joseph L. Rauh with expulsion from the hearing room. McClellan told all concerned he would seek contempt of Congress prosecution if he finds anyone threatened Conger or other witnesses.

Rauh told the committee the exchange between Conger and Mazey had occurred in the hearing room Wednesday night. He said Conger had told Mazey he "had spies following Mr. Mazey."

Conger told the committee Wednesday the company hired private detectives "to get information about violence" which has marked the 47-month-old UAW strike against the Wisconsin plumbing fixtures firm. The committee is investigating the strike.

CONGER TOLD the committee today that shortly after the hearing recessed late Wednesday, Mazey "approached me in a threatening manner and unloosed aganst me such fould language. I would not repeat it here unless instructed by the committee to do so."

"It didn't intimidate me," Conger said, but he added that "such things could intimidate others if they are subjected to it."

Sen. McNamara (D-Mich) said in advance of today's session there should be a vigorous inquiry to determine whether it was legal for the Kohler Co. to hire detectives to check on UAW pickets.

"Spying on union gatherings is a violation of the Taft-Hartley labor relations act," McNamara said.

The Michigan senator's statement came as the committee prepared to explore the beating of a Kohler nonstriker by William Vinson, an official of the United Auto Workers. Vinson was convicted of the assault and sent to prison.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said witnesses would include Vinson, an international representative of the UAW from Detroit, and Willard Van Ouwerkerk of Sheboygan Falls, Wis., whose injuries included a broken neck.

A committee investigator, Jerome Alderman, testified police records show 838 complaints of vandalism since the strike started April 5, 1954. He said they included 259 reports of actual vandalism against nonstrikers and 30 against strikers. The committee is trying to determine responsibility.

ADMITS PUSH — Eleven-year-old George Jones told New York detectives he pushed two children into the Hudson river where they drowned. Earlier he had said he saw them fall in. He said he shoved Louis Diamant, 7, in because he "wouldn't give me 10 cents he had promised me." No motive was given for pushing Theresa Murphy, 4, off the pier.

Stock Mart Prices Show Slight Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — A pickup in demand for steels, oils and rails accompanied a fair stock market rise early this afternoon.

Moderately active turnover pushed key stocks ahead fractions to well over a point.

The market was riding a four-day winning streak and bid fair to make it No. 5.

Good earnings reports from oil firms, higher copper prices abroad and reassurance that the administration plans to combat the recession formed the news background.

Gulf Oil was about the best performer in its group, adding about two points.

Chrysler, prime contractor for the Jupiter C which fired the second Explorer was undiscouraged by the doubt concerning success of the attempt. It rose a good fraction.

Gains of more than a point were made by Du Pont and Illinois Central.

Long range U. S. government bonds improved.

Youth Is Held In Fatal Shooting

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 17-year-old high school junior was held by police today following the fatal shooting of a friend with a gun he thought was empty.

Police said Excell Matthews Jr., 15, a ninth grader, was shot Wednesday night. A bullet from a .38 caliber revolver entered his neck and lodged in his brain.

Homicide detectives said the boy had been shooting pool with two friends. The 17-year-old youth brought a revolver out of the poolroom and into an alley, pointed it at one of Matthews' companions and jokingly pulled the trigger.

Ignoring a warning that the gun might be loaded, the youth then pointed the gun at young Matthews and pulled the trigger again. A bullet, one of two in the chamber, struck the boy.

Marie McDonald's Kidnaping Story Checked by Detectives

CINCINNATI (AP)—A veteran Los Angeles detective hears today what actress Marie McDonald calls the real story of her kidnaping more than a year ago.

The 34-year-old actress, here for a night club engagement, called a press conference Wednesday and sobbed as she told newsmen her estranged husband, Harry Karl, was responsible for the kidnaping 13 months ago.

The story enlisted the quick interest of West Coast police. Thad Brown, detective chief at Los Angeles, said: "This is the first time we have heard this story from her."

Detective Lt. Herman Zander, who investigated the kidnaping, was sent by plane, with Julian Blodgett of the Los Angeles prosecuting attorney's office, to question Miss McDonald today.

Also in Los Angeles, Karl scoffed at the story which he said is "absurd and ridiculous" and said: "I feel quite sorry for Marie. She needs a great deal of help."

Wednesday's press conference came after Karl announced in Los Angeles that he is infatuated with a redhead and wants a divorce from Miss McDonald.

Karl and his wife were also estranged in January, 1957, when she disappeared from her home and was located 150 miles away 24 hours later. She told of being kidnaped by two men.

Officials said she testified under oath at length before a grand jury, but no indictments were returned.

Wednesday, she said the kidnaping was authentic, but was "motivated by my husband by his own admission and by the admission of the two men who kidnaped me."

She said she paid $5,000 to the two men and they told her Karl was behind the action.

She says she still loves the millionaire shoe retailer and won't give him a divorce. She said: "I have three children to think of."

The couple has been divorced twice before, but remarried each time, the last in 1955.

She obtained an interlocutory decree in July, 1956, but it never became final and the couple was reconciled in 1957.

Miss McDonald, who says she dislikes her nickname of "The Body", Wednesday had first termed Karl's talk of divorce as a "current bit of foolishness," but said she later, after thinking it over, decided to tell the story of the kidnaping.

Sensenbrenner Says He's in Favor of Charity Bingo

CLEVELAND (AP) — Maynard E. Sensenbrenner, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio, said Wednesday night that he is in favor of permitting "charity bingo."

The Columbus mayor also announced his stand on a number of other issues.

He said he is in favor of supplemental unemployment benefits, declaring: "If it's good for the 18 states which have it it's good for Ohio. I'm for it 100 per cent."

He also indicated he is opposed to the abolition of the stamp method of collecting the sales tax, saying: "The sales tax stamp is doing more good than harm."

Commenting on Daylight Saving Time, the mayor said: "It is a good thing for people who like sports." He said the whole state should have one uniform time.

More than 120 Projects OKd For 4-H Member's Choosing

Several Pickaway County 4-H clubs have organized, others are starting during this National 4-H Club Week, and others will start during March.

More than 120 different projects are available for 4-H members to enter during 1958. The main groups of projects for girls are clothing, foods and nutrition. Beef, swine, sheep and dairy are the most important agricultral projects.

But in addition, bees, colts, birds, insects, woodworking, electricity, auto care, rabbits, vegetable gardening and lawn care are some of the less common agricultural projects.

Flower gardening, home furnishings, home management, personality, first aid and child care are some other interesting projects available to members.

Most 4-H clubs organize into a group having similar projects. Most advisors feel they can help members better if there are only a few different projects in one club.

ALL PROJECTS started should be completed. Completion of most projects consists of exhibiting the animal, dress, or other project at the county fair. Many trophies, medals, and cash awards are given for projects exhibited.

If interested in 4-H, contact your local club leader or the Agriculture Extension Service. Now, during National 4-H Club Week, is a good time to get started.

Senate Ag Panel OKs Bill To Block Farm Prop Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee today approved bills that would prevent Secretary of Agriculture Benson from reducing farm price supports and planting allotments of this year's crops below last year's levels.

Chairman Ellender (D-La) said the vote was 12-3.

Across the Capitol, meantime, a House Agriculture subcommittee unanimously approved legislation to block Benson from lowering dairy price supports from about 85 per cent of parity to 75 on April 1.

Chairman Abernethy (D-Miss) said the bill would keep the minimum support price on milk used in manufacturing dairy products at the current level of $3.25 a hundred pounds for two years.

The underlying idea of the new Senate drive is to freeze government farm price supports and acreage controls at not less than the levels of last year.

"It would freeze things until Congress has a chance to act on new permanent legislation," Ellender said. "It would cover all basic commodities, including dairy products."

Some weeks ago Benson announced he would lower price supports on milk and dairy products to the legal minimum effective April 1. He already has announced a 22-cent slash in support levels for this year's wheat to an average of $1.78 a bushel.

She was last seen heading east on Route 316 toward Ashville driving a 1957 model car. Her disappearance was reported to the sheriff's department at 6:15 p. m. by Earl D. Boyer, a brother-in-law.

According to information received at the sheriff's office, Mrs. Roese had been under treatment for a mental condition.

SHERIFF'S deputies and auxiliaries immediately started a widespread search for the missing woman. Approximately 15 members of the department joined in the hunt. They traveled practically every road in Pickaway County most of the night but failed to find any trace of the woman.

Harold Johnson, an employe at the Kuhlwein farm, told Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff that he heard three shots yesterday at about 1:30 p. m., but thought they were fired by hunters in the woods. He said the shots came in rapid succession.

Deputy Radcliff said the woman probably fired the first shot into her chest. He said the other two shots apparently were fired as she fell to the ground.

The body was removed to the Bastian Funeral Home, Ashville, where funeral arrangements will be completed.

More Freeway Bids Are Sought

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highways will open bids March 18 for a 4½-mile section of Ohio 1 in Morrow County.

The section, which will cost about $6,700,000 to build, is about six miles southeast of Mount Gilead. It will be completed by Aug. 31, 1959 and connect freeway sections already under construction.

The department will open bids the same day for a traffic relief route at Doylestown in Wayne County. The project will cost about $3,400,000 and will include a grade separation with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for Ohio 5. The project will be five miles long.

Mamie's Kin Due To Testify In FCC Probe

Colonel Denies Using Any Influence in Miami TV Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Col. George Gordon Moore, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Eisenhower, will be given a chance to testify in a House investigation of alleged influence in the grant of a lucrative television license in Miami.

Moore denied that he had anything to do with the Federal Communications Commission's grant of TV Channel 10 to a National Airlines subsidiary headed by G. T. Baker, a friend of his.

But Moore wrote Rep. Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the investigating subcommittee, that he is willing to repeat his denial under oath.

"Of course the committee will give him that opportunity," Harris said, but added that no definite arrangements have been made.

The subcommittee hearings were in recess until Monday when Thurman A. Whiteside, Florida attorney, is expected back to finish testimony about his role in the Miami case and his financial favors to Richard A. Mack, who resigned under fire as an FCC commissioner earlier this week.

* * *

FRANK Katzentine, a Miami radio station owner who lost in a bid for Channel 10, has testified before the subcommittee that he heard Moore "engineered" the award to Public Service Television, Inc., the National Airlines subsidiary.

Baker has denied getting any help from Moore and has said pressure was exerted by Katzentine and others on Katzentine's behalf.

Despite Moore's denial, Representatives Peter Mack (D-Ill) and Williams (D-Miss) suggested that the subcommittee, on which both serve, inquire into Moore's relationship with George Gibbs, vice president of Public Service. Williams said he felt the matter "has a distinct bearing on the case in Miami."

Baker has charged that Democratic Senators Kefauver of Tennessee and Holland and Smathers of Florida pushed Katzentine's application with the FCC. All three senators have said they asked only that the case be decided on its merits and that they would be willing to testify before the House group if they are invited. Despite Republican demands that the senators be invited to appear, the subcommittee so far has issued no invitation.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) said today the committee will not invite testimony from the senators.

"We're not going to ask them to come over here and if I were the senators I wouldn't come voluntarily," Rayburn told newsmen.

"If a Senate committee asked me to go over there I would tell them to go dig potatoes deep."

Rayburn said the senators whose names have been mentioned during the House hearings have a forum of their own in which to testify if they wish.

More than 120 Projects OKd For 4-H Member's Choosing

Several Pickaway County 4-H clubs have organized, others are starting during this National 4-H Club Week, and others will start during March.

More than 120 different projects are available for 4-H members to enter during 1958. The main groups of projects for girls are clothing, foods and nutrition. Beef, swine, sheep and dairy are the most important agricultral projects.

But in addition, bees, colts, birds, insects, woodworking, electricity, auto care, rabbits, vegetable gardening and lawn care are some of the less common agricultural projects.

Flower gardening, home furnishings, home management, personality, first aid and child care are some other interesting projects available to members.

Most 4-H clubs organize into a group having similar projects. Most advisors feel they can help members better if there are only a few different projects in one club.

ALL PROJECTS started should be completed. Completion of most projects consists of exhibiting the animal, dress, or other project at the county fair. Many trophies, medals, and cash awards are given for projects exhibited.

If interested in 4-H, contact your local club leader or the Agriculture Extension Service. Now, during National 4-H Club Week, is a good time to get started.

other point that the fourth stage did not function.

"There is other information, however, that it probably did and that the difficulty is more probably in the radio transmission equipment," Porter added.

In Pasadena, Calif., Dr. William Pickering said there was every indication that the satellite was not functioning properly and that there was a probability that it was not in orbit.

* * *

PICKERING said it probably would take several days to interpret technical data sufficiently to find out what had happened.

In Cambridge, Mass., the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said it was alerting Moonwatch teams to be on the lookout for Explorer II even though it had not been determined whether it was in orbit.

If in an orbit, the satellite would not be visible in the United States until next week, the observatory said.

In Iowa City, Iowa, Dr. James Van Allen, who directed construction of decoding equipment in the satellite, said there were three possible reasons why the second satellite had not been located.

Van Allen said the satellite might not have achieved an orbit, might have gone into a different orbit than was expected, or might have sustained failure of its radio.

Even if Explorer II doesn't attain an orbit the Soviet and American satellites already aloft will come back into periods of visibility, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory says.

Sputnik II, the Soviet dog satellite launched Nov. 3, continues to cross the United States half a dozen times a day. It will be visible again to this country this weekend. By the latter part of next week it should be a dramatic sight as it orbits across the nation in the morning twilight.

Explorer I, launched Jan. 31, continues to circle the earth in a band between 34 degrees north and 34 degrees south latitude. It never crosses the United States above the southern part of the nation from lower California to just below Cape Hatteras.

Dear, Dear; that Deer Insists on Big Crash

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP) — Matt Erschen and two other workers were holding a 7-by-10-foot plate glass ready for installation. They saw a deer bounding up the sidewalk toward them.

The men frantically waved at the animal.

The deer circled the big glass, crashed through a 5-by-6-foot window on the other side, and kept on going.

Kohler Probe Brings Loud, Angry Shouts

Senate Panel Hearing Atmosphere Bitter; Little Progress Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyman C. Conger, chief counsel for the Kohler Co., told the Senate Rackets Committee today he had been cursed in its hearing room by Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers union.

Conger's angry protest set off a round of heated shouting.

At one point Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) threatened UAW Atty. Joseph L. Rauh with expulsion from the hearing room. McClellan told all concerned he would seek contempt of Congress prosecution if he finds anyone threatened Conger or other witnesses.

Rauh told the committee the exchange between Conger and Mazey had occurred in the hearing room Wednesday night. He said Conger had told Mazey he "had spies following Mr. Mazey."

Conger told the committee Wednesday the company hired private detectives "to get information about violence" which has marked the 47-month-old UAW strike against the Wisconsin plumbing fixtures firm. The committee is investigating the strike.

CONGER TOLD the committee today that shortly after the hearing recessed late Wednesday, Mazey "approached me in a threatening manner and unloosed aganst me such fould language. I would not repeat it here unless instructed by the committee to do so."

"It didn't intimidate me," Conger said, but he added that "such things could intimidate others if they are subjected to it."

Sen. McNamara (D-Mich) said in advance of today's session there should be a vigorous inquiry to determine whether it was legal for the Kohler Co. to hire detectives to check on UAW pickets.

"Spying on union gatherings is a violation of the Taft-Hartley labor relations act," McNamara said.

The Michigan senator's statement came as the committee prepared to explore the beating of a Kohler nonstriker by William Vinson, an official of the United Auto Workers. Vinson was convicted of the assault and sent to prison.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said witnesses would include Vinson, an international representative of the UAW from Detroit, and Willard Van Ouwerkerk of Sheboygan Falls, Wis., whose injuries included a broken neck.

A committee investigator, Jerome Alderman, testified police records show 838 complaints of vandalism since the strike started April 5, 1954. He said they included 259 reports of actual vandalism against nonstrikers and 30 against strikers. The committee is trying to determine responsibility.

ADMITS PUSH — Eleven-year-old George Jones told New York detectives he pushed two children into the Hudson river where they drowned. Earlier he had said he saw them fall in. He said he shoved Louis Diamant, 7, in because he "wouldn't give me 10 cents he had promised me." No motive was given for pushing Theresa Murphy, 4, off the pier.

Stock Mart Prices Show Slight Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — A pickup in demand for steels, oils and rails accompanied a fair stock market rise early this afternoon.

Moderately active turnover pushed key stocks ahead fractions to well over a point.

The market was riding a four-day winning streak and bid fair to make it No. 5.

Good earnings reports from oil firms, higher copper prices abroad and reassurance that the administration plans to combat the recession formed the news background.

Gulf Oil was about the best performer in its group, adding about two points.

Chrysler, prime contractor for the Jupiter C which fired the second Explorer was undiscouraged by the doubt concerning success of the attempt. It rose a good fraction.

Gains of more than a point were made by Du Pont and Illinois Central.

Long range U. S. government bonds improved.

Youth Is Held In Fatal Shooting

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 17-year-old high school junior was held by police today following the fatal shooting of a friend with a gun he thought was empty.

Police said Excell Matthews Jr., 15, a ninth grader, was shot Wednesday night. A bullet from a .38 caliber revolver entered his neck and lodged in his brain.

Homicide detectives said the boy had been shooting pool with two friends. The 17-year-old youth brought a revolver out of the poolroom and into an alley, pointed it at one of Matthews' companions and jokingly pulled the trigger.

Ignoring a warning that the gun might be loaded, the youth then pointed the gun at young Matthews and pulled the trigger again. A bullet, one of two in the chamber, struck the boy.

Senate Ag Panel OKs Bill To Block Farm Prop Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee today approved bills that would prevent Secretary of Agriculture Benson from reducing farm price supports and planting allotments of this year's crops below last year's levels.

Chairman Ellender (D-La) said the vote was 12-3.

Across the Capitol, meantime, a House Agriculture subcommittee unanimously approved legislation to block Benson from lowering dairy price supports from about 85 per cent of parity to 75 on April 1.

Chairman Abernethy (D-Miss) said the bill would keep the minimum support price on milk used in manufacturing dairy products at the current level of $3.25 a hundred pounds for two years.

The underlying idea of the new Senate drive is to freeze government farm price supports and acreage controls at not less than the levels of last year.

"It would freeze things until Congress has a chance to act on new permanent legislation," Ellender said. "It would cover all basic commodities, including dairy products."

Some weeks ago Benson announced he would lower price supports on milk and dairy products to the legal minimum effective April 1. He already has announced a 22-cent slash in support levels for this year's wheat to an average of $1.78 a bushel.

Marie McDonald's Kidnaping Story Checked by Detectives

CINCINNATI (AP)—A veteran Los Angeles detective hears today what actress Marie McDonald calls the real story of her kidnaping more than a year ago.

The 34-year-old actress, here for a night club engagement, called a press conference Wednesday and sobbed as she told newsmen her estranged husband, Harry Karl, was responsible for the kidnaping 13 months ago.

The story enlisted the quick interest of West Coast police. Thad Brown, detective chief at Los Angeles, said: "This is the first time we have heard this story from her."

Detective Lt. Herman Zander, who investigated the kidnaping, was sent by plane, with Julian Blodgett of the Los Angeles prosecuting attorney's office, to question Miss McDonald today.

Also in Los Angeles, Karl scoffed at the story which he said is "absurd and ridiculous" and said: "I feel quite sorry for Marie. She needs a great deal of help."

Wednesday's press conference came after Karl announced in Los Angeles that he is infatuated with a redhead and wants a divorce from Miss McDonald.

Karl and his wife were also estranged in January, 1957, when she disappeared from her home and was located 150 miles away 24 hours later. She told of being kidnaped by two men.

Officials said she testified under oath at length before a grand jury, but no indictments were returned.

Wednesday, she said the kidnaping was authentic, but was "motivated by my husband by his own admission and by the admission of the two men who kidnaped me."

She said she paid $5,000 to the two men and they told her Karl was behind the action.

She says she still loves the millionaire shoe retailer and won't give him a divorce. She said: "I have three children to think of."

The couple has been divorced twice before, but remarried each time, the last in 1955.

She obtained an interlocutory decree in July, 1956, but it never became final and the couple was reconciled in 1957.

Miss McDonald, who says she dislikes her nickname of "The Body", Wednesday had first termed Karl's talk of divorce as a "current bit of foolishness," but said she later, after thinking it over, decided to tell the story of the kidnaping.

Sensenbrenner Says He's in Favor of Charity Bingo

CLEVELAND (AP) — Maynard E. Sensenbrenner, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio, said Wednesday night that he is in favor of permitting "charity bingo."

The Columbus mayor also announced his stand on a number of other issues.

He said he is in favor of supplemental unemployment benefits, declaring: "If it's good for the 18 states which have it it's good for Ohio. I'm for it 100 per cent."

He also indicated he is opposed to the abolition of the stamp method of collecting the sales tax, saying: "The sales tax stamp is doing more good than harm."

Commenting on Daylight Saving Time, the mayor said: "It is a good thing for people who like sports." He said the whole state should have one uniform time.

Costa Rica Eliminates Army

President-elect Mario Echandi of Costa Rica says that after he takes office in May he will abolish his country's armed forces. "Costa Rica will be the first country in the world to govern itself without armaments," he says. "We will offer our arms to those who sold them to us, in exchange for plows and tractors."

This will be a daring experiment. North of Costa Rica lies bigger Nicaragua, a military dictatorship. Two years ago Costa Rican rebels harbored and trained in Nicaragua invaded Costa Rica and tried to overthrow its government.

Relations between the two countries have often been strained in recent years, and the good offices of the Organization of American States have been needed to smooth things over. Without any army, Costa Rica would seem to be asking for trouble.

In many Latin American nations the armed forces are deeply involved in politics, and from time to time a dominant clique, as in Argentina under Peron or in Venezuela until recently, sets up an army-backed dictatorship. Sometimes the armed forces have intervened to overthrow a dictatorship.

But when an army, acting independently of the civil government, decides what sort of regime a country should have, it is an unsatisfactory arrangement at best. If Costa Rica can smash that tradition good!

Diplomacy from the Grassroots

A few days ago 20 dairy heifers left Kansas on a journey to Germany. These animals were being shipped under the auspices of Heifer Project Inc.

This organization is an interdenominational relief and rehabilitation undertaking formed at the end of World War II to send donated livestock and poultry to war-ruined and underdeveloped countries. The project encompasses the entire country.

Stories are told by representatives who accompanied past shipments of German farmers throwing their arms about the necks of the cows given them. The response in good feeling and friendship for America from the project has been tremendous.

Since 1945 Heifer Project has shipped 10,112 head of cattle, 7,744 goats, 1,324 pigs, 358,000 chicks, many hatching eggs, sheep, turkey poults, bees, ducklings, horses and other animals.

This project is typical of many church-sponsored relief efforts that receive little attention in the news but do much to maintain the feeling of "little people" in foreign lands that Americans truly are generous in their help to others in need.

34-Book Author Works Hard

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—"A lot of people have it easy in this life," said Erskine Caldwell. "They don't have to work hard."

"I do. I have to sweat."

But in the last 30 years Caldwell, a tall, blue-eyed sorrel-haired man who looks as if he had been quarried from the red earth of his native Georgia, has written 34 books. They range from the early realism of "Tobacco Road" to his recently completed "Molly Cottontail," a children's story.

This year will mark the film debut of "God's Little Acre," his most successful novel. More than eight million copies have been printed, and it has become the best-selling work of serious fiction ever written in America.

It has been translated into two-score languages. But for some reason "God's Little Acre" has never been distributed in the Soviet Union, where several of Caldwell's other works are quite popular.

"I don't suppose the Russians cared for the first word of the title," he remarked dryly.

For 20 years, angered at what Hollywood had done to his "Tobacco Road," Caldwell stubbornly refused all offers to make "God's Little Acre" into a film. Finally he did it himself on a partnership basis.

The movie was shot near Stockton, Calif., because no location site could be secured in Georgia.

The writer, a lone and rugged individualist, is the son of a Presbyterian minister. As a child he moved to a new town almost every year. This kept him from making any lifelong friends in his youth, and he observed, "I have none now."

Still a wanderer, he never lives more than seven years in one place, never writes two books in the same room. A martinet in self-discipline, he wrote for seven years—"usually from sundown to sunup" — before he sold his first magazine story.

His years of privation stick in his memory.

"I still save string, rubber bands and paper clips," he said. "I never got rich enough to let it affect my work."

Caldwell rarely reads books now, rarely associates with other writers because he thinks writers, including himself, are pretty dull people socially.

"All writers talk about is their own work," he said. "They don't even know good jokes."

Trial, Error Is Government

By George Sokolsky

Orderly government is the product of long trial and error, resulting in a system which is understood by those who work with it and is generally accepted. Our system is outlined in the Constitution, is implemented by acts of Congress and the decisions of the courts, particularly the Supreme Court.

It is an interesting system because it permits the greatest degree of human liberty by deliberately sacrificing the power of the government to rule by fiat, which has usually been the method of rulers. Instead, the Constitution established a system of checks and balances so that absolute power is lodged nowhere and in no person. That such a system should have survived so long is remarkable, because the looseness of authority makes for waste and inefficiency. It also gives ample opportunity for political racketeers to abuse the opportunities that are open to them.

Only in time of war have Americans consented to the application of extraordinary powers by the President. Unfortunately World War II never quite ended. It has continued into what is for convenience called the "Cold War," a political extension of a war of balance and attrition. This "Cold War," in its current phase, is marked by a contest in the production of new weapons which are themselves novel applications of newly-revealed scientific principles.

There are those who continue to comfort themselves with tales of Russian thefts of American secret formulae, a comfort which true or untrue is now of no political significance. The fact is that Soviet Russia, if not absolutely equal to us in this field, is not far behind. Should it be proved, as it well might be, that Russian submarines off the coast of Florida caused American sputniks to fail, it can only be that they already have a device of defense against rockets and missiles, and therefore are ahead of us.

If the Russians get far ahead of us in this field, it will be argued that we must change our system of government, as some now want us to change our system of education to meet the enemy. In a word, there will be those who will attribute our failure, should we fail, to a loose system of government in which individual liberty is regarded as more valuable than governmental efficiency.

Already in the time of Franklin D. Roosevelt, because of depression and war, there were those who set the Presidency apart as a sacerdotal office, with the President as a sort of mangod, a deus ex machina that could solve all problems with perfection of wisdom.

Harry Truman was too human for such a conception and it looked as though it might disappear with him, but it returned with Eisenhower, the very Republicans who had criticized Roosevelt as an absolute, seeking such perfections in Eisenhower. However, no matter how popular the President remained, he could not transfer such popularity to Sherman Adams and Jim Hagerty who look and act very human, indeed, and often exceed constitutional authority.

In the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee's hearings, the testimony in which I am now engaged in reading, time after time, the question of authority, arises. General Twining's outburst in his debate with Senator Symington is most interesting, because therein lies both a criticism and an objective view of our problem.

The issue is a clear one. Congress votes the appopriations. It needs to know what it is voting for. It needs to know whether there is an honest administration of funds voted; whether enough or too much money is voted and what is accomplished thereby. That is constitutionally the function of Congress. To this challenge of this function, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Nathan Twining, replied:

"...I will give you all the information you want, and the witnesses will give you all the information you want, but you should not bring them back and say, 'Is this adequate?' after the decision has been made.

"In the military terminology a commander makes a decision if everybody starts bucking it, it is just no good, you have no military."

But who made the decision in question? Was it the military, the scientists, the experts or the politicians? Was it the Bureau of the Budget which has no decision-making authority under the Constitution? Who ultimately decides such questions? Under our system of government, when it is orderly, Congress decides.

Poison Calls for Promptness

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

You must act quickly when a member of your family accidentally swallows a poison, whether it is an overdose of a drug or a common household cleaner. Better call your doctor at once.

No matter what type the poison may be, you must prevent it from being absorbed. Prompt first-aid action is required.

When noncorrosive substances have been swallowed, it is best to induce vomiting quickly. In fact, the American Medical Association's Committee on Toxicology emphasizes this point very strongly.

The first thing to do is to give the victim milk or water. If he is five years or under, give him one to two cups; if he is over five, give him up to one quart.

Then induce vomiting.

If the victim is a child, place him face down in a "spanking position" across your lap. Place the blunt end of a spoon or the tip of your finger at the back of his throat.

Another method of inducing vomiting is to give him two tablespoons of salt in a glass of warm water.

When retching and vomiting begin, place him face down with his his head lower than his hips. This will prevent the vomitus from entering the lungs and causing further damage.

If you have the poison or poison container, save it for your doctor to inspect. If you do not know what type of poison has been taken, save a sample of the vomitus.

Wrap the patient in a blanket to prevent chilling. Do not give him alcohol in any form.

Now a word of caution. You must not—induce vomiting if:

The patient is in convulsions.

The patient is in a coma or unconscious.

The patient has swallowed petroleum products such as gasoline, kerosene or lighter fluid.

The patient has swallowed a corrosive poison such as toilet bowl cleaners, rust removers, drain cleaners, washing soda or household bleach.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is an A-B-C on the agreemeent between President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon for the latter to act as president if Eisenhower becomes too disabled to carry out his duties.

Because, as Eisenhower said, the two men have faith in each other, Nixon will decide whether Eisenhower — if unable to speak for himself — is too disabled to act as president. Then Nixon will act for him. The word "act" in all this is important.

Nixon won't take the oath of office as president. He will not become president. He will turn the job back to Eisenhower if the latter recovers. Eisenhower, not Nixon, will decide whether the President's disability has ended.

The two men have made it clear this agreement is meant to apply to them only, not to future presidents and vice presidents. Why was the agreement made at all? For several reasons.

The Constitution is vague on just how a vice president takes over from a disabled president. It doesn't, for instance, say who decides on the President's disability. It doesn't say who decides when a president is no longer disabled.

It simply says that in case of presidential disability the vice president will take over the presidential duties and powers and "act" for the President until he recovers or a new president is elected.

It doesn't say the vice president shall become president or that he must take the presidential oath. Is the agreement constitutional? Some — including House Speaker Rayburn, Texas Democrat — disagree.

Rayburn argues that a vice president who attempts to carry out the presidential duties must take the oath of office as president and, once he has done so, the elected but ailing President is out of office.

But Atty. Gen. Rogers considers the agreement constitutional. He argues against the need for the vice president to take the oath of the presidency or that when he does the old President is finished.

He says the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement is in keeping with constitutional language.

It simply says Nixon will act for Eisenhower and, without requiring a presidential oath from the vice president, it says Eisenhower will resume the presidential duties when he's able.

Eisenhoweer has made clear the reason for the agreement: his worry that in a moment of national crisis he might be disabled and there'd be confusion and disagreement over how Nixon would take over the duties required of the head of government.

There's another reason for what Eisenhower and Nixon did: since Eisenhower's 1955 heart attack his administration twice — in 1956 and 1957 — asked Congress to clear up the present constitutional uncertainty by taking action that would spell out precisely how a vice president takes over from a disabled president.

Congress failed to act. Meanwhile, Eisenhower suffered two other major illnesses: an abdominal operation and a mild stroke. Suppose now Eisenhower suffers a paralyzing stroke and becomes physically or mentally unable to tell Nixon to act for him.

What then? Perhaps national confusion and hesitancy by Nixon to move in. Rayburn argues the Constitution's vagueness can be cleared up by a simple act of Congress. Rogers disagrees.

He says any arrangement for the vice president to take over — as spelled out in a congressional act — could be challenged in the courts as unconstitutional. Therefore, the only unchallengeable thing to do is to pass a constitutional amendment.

But Rogers believes — pending a constitutional amendment — that the courts would hold the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement was within the meaning of the present Constitution.

To do otherwise, he said, would mean that the courts were favoring the kind of chaos — and lack of clearly understood national leadership — that would follow a presidential disability unless there was this kind of agreement.

Costa Rica Eliminates Army

President-elect Mario Echandi of Costa Rica says that after he takes office in May he will abolish his country's armed forces. "Costa Rica will be the first country in the world to govern itself without armaments," he says. "We will offer our arms to those who sold them to us, in exchange for plows and tractors."

This will be a daring experiment. North of Costa Rica lies bigger Nicaragua, a military dictatorship. Two years ago Costa Rican rebels harbored and trained in Nicaragua invaded Costa Rica and tried to overthrow its government.

Relations between the two countries have often been strained in recent years, and the good offices of the Organization of American States have been needed to smooth things over. Without any army, Costa Rica would seem to be asking for trouble.

In many Latin American nations the armed forces are deeply involved in politics, and from time to time a dominant clique, as in Argentina under Peron or in Venezuela until recently, sets up an army-backed dictatorship. Sometimes the armed forces have intervened to overthrow a dictatorship.

But when an army, acting independently of the civil government, decides what sort of regime a country should have, it is an unsatisfactory arrangement at best. If Costa Rica can smash that tradition good!

Diplomacy from the Grassroots

A few days ago 20 dairy heifers left Kansas on a journey to Germany. These animals were being shipped under the auspices of Heifer Project Inc.

This organization is an interdenominational relief and rehabilitation undertaking formed at the end of World War II to send donated livestock and poultry to war-ruined and underdeveloped countries. The project encompasses the entire country.

Stories are told by representatives who accompanied past shipments of German farmers throwing their arms about the necks of the cows given them. The response in good feeling and friendship for America from the project has been tremendous.

Since 1945 Heifer Project has shipped 10,112 head of cattle, 7,744 goats, 1,324 pigs, 358,000 chicks, many hatching eggs, sheep, turkey poults, bees, ducklings, horses and other animals.

This project is typical of many church-sponsored relief efforts that receive little attention in the news but do much to maintain the feeling of "little people" in foreign lands that Americans truly are generous in their help to others in need.

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is an A-B-C on the agreemeent between President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon for the latter to act as president if Eisenhower becomes too disabled to carry out his duties.

Top-Secret Film Due on TV Showing Hiroshima A-Bomb

NEW YORK (AP)—Seated before the large screen in the television projection studio it seemed that you were at the controls of a B29 again.

Here, in camera closeup, were the instrument panel and the control pedestal. Out through the plexiglass dome you could see Pacific cumulus clouds in the glare of morning sun.

"We started our climb to 30,000 feet at 7:40. At 18,500 feet I set the C-1 automatic pilot up for the last time until after 'bombs away.' I checked with the crew at 20,000 and all stations reported satisfactory. We reached our altitude at 8:30. Nelson received a report that our primary target is the best target. So we will make a bomb run on Hiroshima. . . ."

The husky man in the projection studio shifted suddenly at the memory of writing those words in the plane which he now saw on the screen roaring toward Hiroshima and a new era of history.

He saw the bomb falling. Then everything grew dim in a flashing white brilliance. There was a cloud, an enormous and strangely shaped cloud. . . He remembered whispering to himself, "My God, what have we done?"

The screen of the projection studio darkened suddenly and the lights came on. The man who had been flying that B29 to Hiroshima in memory again, Robert A. Lewis—turned to the man beside him.

"That's exactly the way it was," he said.

Lewis had been viewing for the first time recently declassified top-secret films of the preparations that led up to the dropping of the first atomic bomb Aug. 6, 1945. The television audience will see the same filmed account next Sunday on Twentieth Century (CBS-TV).

Using films and a diary of the mission kept by co pilot Lewis, Phil Reisman Jr., has written a fine documentary of the historic event.

Lewis and his crew were selected for the job because of his extensive experience with B29s and his outstanding record as a pilot. Col. Paul Tibbets Jr., pilot of the plane, was the squadron commander.

Lewis is a thoroughly domesticated civilian now. He and his wife live in Old Tappan, N.J., with their four sons and one daughter. He commutes to a candy manufacturing firm in New York, where he is personnel director.

"I don't think that my mission to Hiroshima was useless," he said after viewing it on film. "When I was in Japan after the war was over I heard people say it was 'God's wind' that wiped out one city instead of the entire empire. I'll say this. I'll say it was God's wind if it proves to be a deterrent to future wars. If it is, and I believe that it is, then the bombing of Hiroshima was worth it."

27 Persons Plan Trip To Aid Tot

ONSTED, Mich. (AP)—A caravan of 27 persons will drive to St. Luke's Hospital in Cleveland next Monday to help 11-year-old Susan Kurtz.

Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kurtz of Onsted, has suffered a heart defect since her birth. Doctors at the hospital hope surgery can correct the condition.

Ailing Ohio Boy Gets Photo, Note from Ike

CARROLLTON (AP)—Donald Stine is 5 years old. Eighteen months ago he was afflicted with a blood disease doctors believe may be leukemia.

Donald's mother appealed for people to send cards to her son because he enjoys them.

The boy, who also suffers from asthma, was deluged with more than 15,000 get-well letters, toys, gifts and cards from all over.

Then came a special letter, postmarked from Washington, D. C. Inside was a framed picture of President and Mrs. Eisenhower. A letter from the President, signed by his personal secretary, Ann Whitman, brought a smile to Donald's face.

It said, in part:

"The President has learned that you have been a good little boy through some trying times, and that you like to receive letters. So he hopes that this note will please you and that you will continue to be brave. Remember your devoted mother and father and brother, Gene, as well as your many friends are counting on you and sending lots of good wishes your way. . ."

The family of four — Donald's brother Gene is 6—lives on a small farm northeast of here. The father, Earl Stine, is a machine operator in Canton

Household Hints

If you are eating alone, brighten mealtime and save your digestion, as well as steps, by arranging the food on a tray and carry it to a pleasant spot in the house, perhaps by a window.

Be especially careful about using small rugs in a kitchen or bathroom. They should be of rubber or thoroughly rubberized on the back.

Don t try to use a deep chair or table in a narrow part of a room or hallway. Shallow tables, chairs and benches will leave the area looking much larger, save tripping.

Always try to see a prospective carpet purchase in your own home before you buy it. That's the only way you can be sure it will complement your other furnishings.

Clever Kitcheneering

New look kitchens are the most! That stark white operating room decor is gone, one hopes forever. In its place, there's color to create a cheerful, gay atmosphere that psychologically speeds work along.

One such kitchen is done in red, deep green, black, gold, offwhite and charcoal gray. It's an Oriental color scheme that really makes the work room something it never was before—chic!

But color's just part of the story. This idea k This idea k i t c h en, furnished with equipment currently available in stores, rates a great big "E" for Efficiency and Excellence. It incorporates indoor and outdoor cooking centers, a clean-up area, fold-away dining facilities, o o d l e s of storage space. Who could ask more?

Heart of the kitchen is a cooking center with a 30-i n c h electric range. Novel French doors are used for the oven compartment.

Close by, the clean-up a n d food preparation area has a sink, large-capacity undercounter dishwasher, built-in food mixer and a wide expanse of counter work space Base and wall cabinets provice storage. As a background—walls a r e decked with Japanese plastic panels of butterflies.

A 12.5 cubic-foot refrigerator - freezer fits neatly into the cabinet line-up, is close to the kitchen cooking area and to the prefabricated metal fireplace for outdoor cooking indoors.

A full-length b r o o m closet and a general storage cabinet with louvered doors fit flush next to the refrigerator, and add to the custom-made look.

Lacy Fichu Gives Spring Suit Frosting

By BARBARA

Smartly dressed w o m e n are finding that the fichu is one of the most useful accessories in t h e i r wardrobes. Worn at the neckline of a suit of dress, it provides a touch of softness and stays firmly in place all day long without frequent readjustments necessary with a scarf.

The f i c h u may be worn with a suit of a blouse, or to fill in the neckline of a dress. In this season of bright colors and gay prints, you may want to choose a printed chiffon to add interest to a solid color outfit. For instance, a carnation-print chiffon in tones of gold would be effective with a beige suit. The same fabric might be used to trim a matching hat.

While browsing through s o m e local stores we found quite a bit about the coming season fashions. It seems as though plaids are going to be more fashionable in sport styles this year as the solid colors have been in the past.

One t h r e e-piece co-ordinate caught our eye. It was a red plaid skirt and jamaica shorts with a white blouse trimmed with matching plaid. It looked just right for those hot summer days ahead.

In the same store they have a wide selection of jamaica shorts. Now is the time to stock up while you have your pick as to style and selection.

Navy blue is going to be quite the fashion in many of the new spring suits, dresses and matching dusters. They are trimmed in red and white. Navy blue has always been a favorite of many women. It is a slenderizing color.

We found something new t h a t might interest the men. Do you have trouble keeping your personal items in place such as shaving lotion, talcum and cologne. They now have glass trays with room for all the above items. On the tray are containers for each item with extra space for catch-alls. They even have a container for accessories such as cuff links, tie clasps and odd and ends.

There is a new cream lotion for the hair on sale in many local stores. For you gals who have dandruff, dry hair or hard to manage hair it is good to use a little of the cream b e f o r e combing you hair.

It is called VO-5. It helps to put life back into your hair. Hair after permanent waves is sometimes hard to control. By using a little of this cream it makes it better to manage.

Weeky Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lamb and pork steal the spotlight from beef in many of the nation's supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores this week.

Both meats shaded lower in price in scattered sections with reductions of two to four cents a pound. This is in line with government forecasts that more lambs and little pigs would be coming to market this spring. Leg of lamb seems to be the most popular cut for that meat and smoked hams are the most numerous pork item.

With the Lenten season in full swing, fish items such as salmon, oyster stew, shrimp and scallops also are getting a play.

The Lenten season also affects egg prices, which are up sharply again this week. Demand always picked up at this time of year. This week's advances of four to eight cents a dozen may be repeated next week, trade circles say, but after that prices should drop steadily until hot weather arrives.

Outstanding buys are hard to find in vegetable departments, but good buys are available in carrots, spinach and broccoli. Carrots in bunches and bags are down markedly this week, produce men say.

Lettuce and celery are fairly good buys, but somewhat irregular in quality and condition so that careful selection is necessary.

Clever Kitcheneering

New look kitchens are the most! That stark white operating room decor is gone, one hopes forever. In its place, there's color to create a cheerful, gay atmosphere that psychologically speeds work along.

One such kitchen is done in red, deep green, black, gold, offwhite and charcoal gray. It's an Oriental color scheme that really makes the work room something it never was before—chic.

But color's just part of the story. This idea k This idea k i t c h e n, fur-nished with equipment currently available in stores, rates a great big "E" for Efficiency and Excellence. It incorporates indoor and outdoor cooking centers, a clean-up area, fold-away dining facilities, o o d l e s of storage space. Who could ask more?

Close by, the clean-up and food preparation area has a sink, large-capacity undercounter dishwasher, built-in food mixer and a wide expanse of counter work space Base and wall cabinets provice storage. As a background—walls a r e decked with Japanese plastic panels of butterflies.

A 12.5 cubic-foot refrigerator - freezer fits neatly into the cabinet line-up, is close to the kitchen cooking area and to the prefabricated metal fireplace for outdoor cooking indoors.

A full-length b r o o m closet and a general storage cabinet with louvered doors fit flush next to the refrigerator, and add to the custom-made look.

The Orinetal theme i- even carried to the ceiling, made of simple off-white panels and thin bamboo strips.

Lacy Fichu Gives Spring Suit Frosting

By BARBARA

Smartly dressed w o m e n are finding that the fichu is one of the most useful accessories in t h e i r wardrobes. Worn at the neckline of a suit of dress, it provides a touch of softness and stays firmly in place all day long without frequent readjustments necessary with a scarf.

The f i c h u may be worn with a suit of a blouse, or to fill in the neckline of a dress. In this season of bright colors and gay prints, you may want to choose a printed chiffon to add interest to a solid color outfit. For instance, a carnation-print chiffon in tones of gold would be effective with a beige suit. The same fabric might be used to trim a matching hat.

While browsing through s o m e local stores we found quite a bit about the coming season fashions. It seems as though plaids are going to be more fashionable in sport styles this year as the solid colors have been in the past.

One t h r e e-piece co-ordinate caught our eye. It was a red plaid skirt and jamaica shorts with a white blouse trimmed with matching plaid. It looked just right for those hot summer days ahead.

In the same store they have a wide selection of jamaica shorts. Now is the time to stock up while you have your pick as to style and selection.

Navy blue is going to be quite the fashion in many of the new spring suits, dresses and matching dusters. They are trimmed in red and white. Navy blue has always been a favorite of many women. It is a slenderizing color.

We found something new t h a t might interest the men. Do you have trouble keeping your personal items in place such as shaving lotion, talcum and cologne. They now have glass trays with room for all the above items. On the tray are containers for each item with extra space for catch-alls. They even have a container for accessories such as cuff links, tie clasps and odd and ends.

There is a new cream lotion for the hair on sale in many local stores. For you gals who have dandruff, dry hair or hard to manage hair it is good to use a little of the cream b e f o r e combing you hair.

It is called VO-5. It helps to put life back into your hair. Hair after permanent waves is sometimes hard to control. By using a little of this cream it makes it better to manage.

Weeky Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lamb and pork steal the spotlight from beef in many of the nation's supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores this week.

Both meats shaded lower in price in scattered sections with reductions of two to four cents a pound. This is in line with government forecasts that more lambs and little pigs would be coming to market this spring. Leg of lamb seems to be the most popular cut for that meat and smoked hams are the most numerous pork item.

With the Lenten season in full swing, fish items such as salmon, oyster stew, shrimp and scallops also are getting a play.

The Lenten season also affects egg prices, which are up sharply again this week. Demand always picked up at this time of year. This week's advances of four to eight cents a dozen may be repeated next week, trade circles say, but after that prices should drop steadily until hot weather arrives.

Outstanding buys are hard to find in vegetable departments, but good buys are available in carrots, spinach and broccoli. Carrots in bunches and bags are down markedly this week, produce men say.

Lettuce and celery are fairly good buys, but somewhat irregular in quality and condition so that careful selection is necessary.

Wrong Classroom.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sheriff Solon F. Russell told court Wednesday a locksmith, while confined to county jail, taught some inmates to pick two locks there. None escaped.

Writer Recalls Stalin's Death

Correspondent Tipped By Russian Official

Editor's Note: Eddy Gilmore went to Moscow in 1941 for the Associated Press and remained there for the last 12 years of Joseph Stalin's life. Wednesday, on the fifth anniversary of the Russian dictator's death, Gilmore recalls the last chapter in Stalin's career.

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—The telephone jangled at 4 o'clock a few hours before a cold Moscow dawn.

I jumped out of bed, pulled on my clothes and raced down an icy street looking for a taxi.

This was one of the greatest news stories in the world. If Stalin were not dying, a Soviet official would never have bothered to tip off a foreign correspondent.

The immediate job was to reach Moscow's Central Telegraph Office and get the news through censorship to newspapers and radio stations beyond the Iron Curtain.

"Centralny Telegraf," I told him, "and please go by the Kremlin on your way. And tovarich, go very fast."

Behind the crenelated walls of this ancient building a ruthless ruler of 200 million people lay dying.

It was February — five years ago.

Until the early morning of March 5, the Soviets put out medical bulletins on the dictator's losing struggle for life.

Then, on that freezing March 5, came the word: "Joseph Stalin is dead."

Along with the handful of other Western reporters than stationed in Moscow, I finally got my story to the outside world.

But there was one story that didn't get out. Lost in the momentous news of Stalin's death was the decease — at almost the same hour — of Serge Prokofieff, the Soviet Union's greatest composer.

My telegram began: "Only in Russia could Peter and the wolf have died on the same night."

Driver Satisfied, But Trial Costly

REDWOOD CITY, Calif (AP) — Modesto rancher Hermon H. Wadler demanded a jury trial on a traffic charge which would have cost him a $3.50 fine normally.

At his trial before Judge Edward J. Ryan, Wadler admitted he ran a red light but said a cop had trapped him by being too close to the intersection.

A jury found him guilty.

Judge Ryan told him: "You have cost the county $100 by demanding a jury trial, and I am going to fine you the maximum, $53 and costs."

Wadler commented: "I'm satisfied. I had my day in court."

The licorice plant—"lickrish" to small fry—is 50 times as sweet as cane sugar, says Dr. P. A. Houseman of the British Royal Institute of Chemistry.

SENIOR PLAY CAST — 'Night Must Fall' a mystery by Emlyn Williams will take the stage tonight and tomorrow at the Circleville High auditorium. Senior Class Play Scheduled For Tonight and Tomorrow

By FLO GOLDSCHMIDT
Circleville High School

"Night Must Fall" by Emlyn Williams will be presented by the Senior Class of Circleville High School at 8 p. m. tonight and tomorrow in the auditorium of the high school.

Miss Carole Weiler and Jerry Parish have the leading roles. Miss Weiler will play Olivia, a subdued young woman of 28, searching for happiness but doubting if it can be found. Dan, the role to be created by Parish, is a young man about whom much is unknown. What has Dan done? What will Dan be capable of doing in the future? These two questions will be answered for those who see the play.

For those who enjoy watching a clever, sly detective a work, Belsize, a detective from the Scotland Yard, will be played by David Hutzelman. Belsize has the task of discovering the murderer of a lady from the Tallboys Hotel. Such a sleuth as Belsize is bound to get his man. Or does he?

Mrs. Bramson, an old-fashioned lady confined to a wheelchair, will be protrayed by Miss Martha Smith. Mrs. Bramson is not a likeable person; most persons find her easy to hate.

Hubert, played by Terry Barthelmas, is in love with Olivia. Olivia, however, considers him a bore and rejects his proposals.

* * *

MRS. BRAMSON'S two maids add a touch of humor to the play. Miss Shelby Beavers plays Mrs. Terrence, the only member of the household who can talk back to Mrs. Bramson and still keep her job. Dora is a stupid, little English girl who is quick with tears. Miss Anne Steele plays the part of Dora.

The Lord Chief Justice and Nurse Libby are played by Gaylord Greenlee and Miss Patty Easterday.

Gerald Brown is the director of the play. He is assisted by Miss Charlene Bass.

Tickets for the play may be purchased at the door from 7 p. m. until the play starts.

Jury Is Selected In Newark Slaying

NEWARK (AP)—A jury of seven women and five men was seated Wednesday in the second-degree murder trial of Arnold Calhoun, 36, of St. Louisville, accused in a Christmas Eve slaying.

Calhoun claims self-defense and tells police he shot through the doorway of his two-room home at a man he thought was an intruder. The victim was Fred Mick, 45, also of St. Louisville.

Common Pleas Judge Charles B. Holtsberry immediately had the jury visit the scene of the shooting. Then Sheriff William McElroy testified on details of the slaying investigation.

100-Yard Swim Hard On University Student

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—James C. Furlong, 22, Chicago, a Brown University senior, swam 100 yards across the Seekonk River Wednesday and wound up in a hospital.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have often been asked, by friends and acquaintances, why I am always smiling and happy; and my answer is simply that life is beautiful and I am truly contented and blest.

I feel that I am one of the luckiest women in the world. After having been spoiled as a sickly child, I finally took stock of myself in my latter teen years, and tried to change this — and become more considerate.

Now I am in my early forties, and have the grandest father, mother and sisters. Also I have had two extremely happy marriages—my first husband having been killed after seven years' marriage. I remained a widow for seven years, and in this time had a very good life—normally active and crammed with interests.

I am not considered specially good looking or intelligent. But my handsome husband of the last eight years tells me that I am sweet tempered, easy going, mature; and that he just likes being with me.

Although my husband makes more than enough to support me, I have been employed for 12 years, as we have no children. We aren't bitter about this, though we have tried to find a child to adopt. Meanwhile we have our cats and a dog, and we love them dearly.

I can think of nothing to wish for, other than better health for mother and dad; and that I might be a better housekeeper. Oh, possibly I could use a few material things, such as new curtains and furnishings; but what wife doesn't wish for these?

I just thought you might like to hear from a happy woman for a change; and I am sure there are millions more like me.

H.G.

DEAR H.G.: There is a moral to your story, it seems, not consciously grasped by you. Your experience underscores the indelible good to the individual that comes of being superabundantly loved, with cherishing love, by parents and family, in one's childhood.

The fact of your having been "spoiled as a sickly child" — i.e., made the center of generous solicitous affection—probably is the secret of your effortless sense of well being since then. I think it accounts for your perennial peace of heart, in the midest of changing trials and tragedies, over the years.

It is interesting that you finally took stock of yourself in your latter teens, and chose to reverse the "spoiling" process, by growing more considerate of others. This is but another way of saying that you began to fledge out into emotional maturity — to give back to life, in terms of kindness to associates, some of the wealth of love that had been given you.

Another background feature contributing substantially to your contentment—so indirectly that you perhaps don't recognize the source of it—is the continuing presence of your devoted parents in your experience. So long as you have them within reach, as a court of approval, appreciation, reassurance, tender interest, etc., you probably feel invulnerable to the worst that fate can deal.

When and after they are gone, assuming they precede you in death, you will then undergo a searching test of the durability of your happiness—as to whether it is an imperishable part of your emotional constitution; or a "lucky" byproduct of childlike protectedness. (While the protection lasts.)

Indeed it is true that all men and woman are, to an indeterminate extent, still untried children in relation to life, while their parents remain in the picture. A well known journalist once made a deeply impressive comment to that effect, while newly in mourning for his beloved mother.

We were discussing the shock of losing a parent, a shock for which one cannot be prepared, since there is no prefatory experience comparable to it. He said: "I had thought I was grown up, weaned, on my own. But I find that I am just a 39-year-old orphaned child, and that I have to learn to bear up in a lonely world, without my mother in it."

He was a devoted husband and father, successful in his work, and a genius at it, with friends in every walk of life—yet this was his reaction to the ultimate end of the childhood security sense.

M.H.

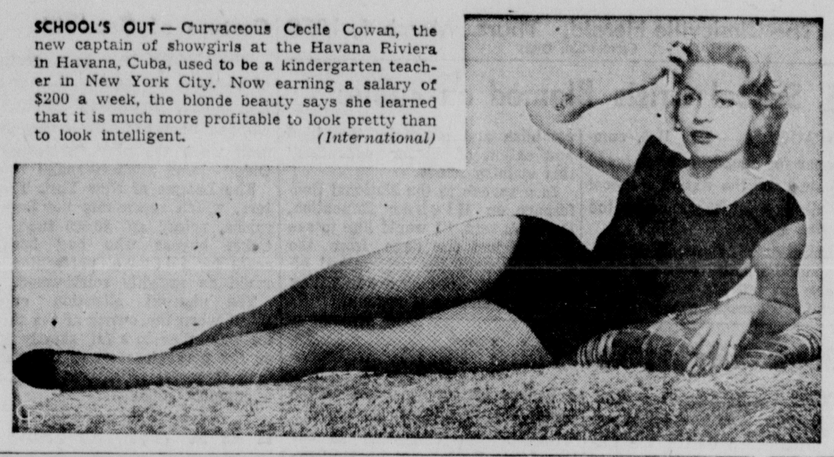
Counsel Named By FCC Probers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert Lishman, a Washington attorney, has been named chief counsel of the special House subcommittee investigating the FCC and other federal agencies.

Chairman Harris (D-Ark) announced the appointment of the successor to the controversial previous counsel, Bernard Schwartz, who was discharged.

The committee said Lishman, 54, has been admitted to practice before the various federal agencies and commissions of the government as well as the courts.



SCHOOL'S OUT — Curvaceous Cecile Cowan, the new captain of showgirls at the Havana Riviera in Havana, Cuba, used to be a kindergarten teacher in New York City. Now earning a salary of $200 a week, the blonde beauty says she learned that it is much more profitable to look pretty than to look intelligent. (International)

Juvenile Law Facilities 'Inadequate'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Facilities of local law enforcement agencies and juvenile courts are woefully inadequate to deal with the mounting tide of delinquency, a state crime committee report contends.

The Ohio Committee on Delinquency and Crime—an organization of prominent Ohioans—said in a report released Wednesday that no Ohio county has an ideal treatment program for juvenile offenders.

Most counties are so badly understaffed there is "no possibility" of effective treatment for children, the report said.

The committee reported that 95 per cent of the state's counties do not have even a minimum number of probation officers. Only 19 of Ohio's 88 counties have separate detention facilities, considered a must by juvenile authorities.

The committee found that many counties were detaining children in jails, in some instances for as long as a week, before granting them a hearing in Juvenile Court.

At least one - fourth of county probation officers are inadequately trained and all are underpaid, the committee said.

Cleveland Lawyer Handed Suspension

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court by unanimous verdict Wednesday indefinitely suspended Henry H. Pleasant of Cleveland as an attorney.

The action upheld a recommendation by the Board of Commissioners on Grievances and Discipline. The board acted on charges brought by a Cleveland Bar Association committee.

Pleasant's indefinite suspension stemmed from his conviction on a contempt of court charge in administering the estate of the late William A. Wright in 1949.

NEW "SPARE TIRE" CAN'T GO FLAT—Developed by an Akron rubber company, a "spare tire" that can't go flat is being tested at the company's tire proving grounds in west Texas. The "spare" is a thin, solid-rubber, lightweight disk designed to support a car as far as 100 miles for permanent repairs to a punctured tire. A company technician is demonstrating the ease of mounting the "spare." (International)

U.S. School Crisis Blamed on Public

CHICAGO (AP) — The U.S. commissioner for education has placed the blame for the nation's school crisis directly at the door of the American public.

Commissioner Lawrence G. Derthick said the main trouble is that "society has not yet provided the financial resources necessary to establish and maintain the kind and extent of higher education" this country needs.

In a speech to the National Conference on Higher Education, Derthick said, "I would like to see us take just one page from the Russian book: the determined effort and support they are investing in their educational system."

Faubus Running For Third Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus, who came into national prominence during the Little Rock school integration controversy, has announced he will seek a third term.

The only third-term governor in Arkansas history was Jeff Davis, who served from 1900-06.

Filings for the Democratic primary close April 30 and the first primary is held July 29. A majority Democratic vote is tantamount to election in Arkansas.

Gesture of Goodwill

NEW YORK (AP)— In a gesture of goodwill toward the theater-going public, Broadway producers chipped in with an emergency fund when the play "Winesburg, Ohio" closed amid financial woes.

The League of New York Theaters, which represents the impresarios, raised an $8,000 fund so ticket buyers who had bought seats for future performances could be speedily reimbursed.

The unusual situation came about when the owner of the theater was killed in a fall shortly after the play closed, and the theater's financial setup was found in a complex muddle.

It Is A Womans Show

NEW YORK (AP)— One of Broadway's most famous musical comedies, "Kiss Me Kate," is now a one-woman show.

Mrs. Bea Solomon, of Syracuse, N. Y., using a four-in-one utility costume and assisted by a piano player, has played 25 one-night appearances since last October.

In its original version "Kiss Me Kate" employed 16 principals and a chorus.

Rate Hike Pegged To Price of Coal

CANTON (AP) — Authority to increase electric rates to residential and commercial customers if the price of coal goes up will be sought from the Utilities Commission by the Ohio Power Co.

The company said it would request a rate increase of one cent to the average residential consumer for every 11 cents increase in the price of a ton of coal. Ohio Power has 440,000 customers in 53 Ohio counties.

A similar rate clause pegged to the price of fuel has been in effect for industrial users for a number of years, the company said.

U.S. School Crisis Blamed on Public

CHICAGO (AP) — The U.S. commissioner for education has placed the blame for the nation's school crisis directly at the door of the American public.

Commissioner Lawrence G. Derthick said the main trouble is that "society has not yet provided the financial resources necessary to establish and maintain the kind and extent of higher education" this country needs.

In a speech to the National Conference on Higher Education, Derthick said, "I would like to see us take just one page from the Russian book: the determined effort and support they are investing in their educational system."

Faubus Running For Third Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus, who came into national prominence during the Little Rock school integration controversy, has announced he will seek a third term.

The only third-term governor in Arkansas history was Jeff Davis, who served from 1900-06.

Filings for the Democratic primary close April 30 and the first primary is held July 29. A majority Democratic vote is tantamount to election in Arkansas.

Gesture of Goodwill

NEW YORK (AP) — In a gesture of goodwill toward the theater-going public, Broadway producers chipped in with an emergency fund when the play "Winesburg, Ohio" closed amid financial woes.

The League of New York Theaters, which represents the impresarios, raised an $8,000 fund so ticket buyers who had bought seats for future performances could be speedily reimbursed.

The unusual situation came about when the owner of the theater was killed in a fall shortly after the play closed, and the theater's financial setup was found in a complex muddle.

It Is A Womans Show

NEW YORK (AP) — One of Broadway's most famous musical comedies, "Kiss Me Kate," is now a one-woman show.

Mrs. Bea Solomon, of Syracuse, N. Y., using a four-in-one utility costume and assisted by a piano player, has played 25 one-night appearances since last October.

In its original version "Kiss Me Kate" employed 16 principals and a chorus.

People React Differently to Current Slump

By SAM DAWSON

The Federal Reserve Board, for example, issues statistics on consumer credit that are dull enough in themselves until you break them down into indicators of how people are reacting to the times.

Americans took on three billion dollars of installment credit in January. But that is less than they usually take on in that month. Much of the drop was in auto paper—a statistic that Detroit was already sadly aware of.

In that month Americans repaid 3½ billion dollars of consumer credit. But that is less than they usually do in January. The slow down in collections seems to reflect the shrinkage in many individual incomes. Debt that was contracted in an era of overtime paychecks is coming due in an era of little or no overtime and, for many, shorter work weeks and smaller paychecks.

Total consumer debt (both installment and noninstallment) outstanding at the end of January was 810 million dollars less than at the start of the month. But the total is 44 billion, or nearly three billion dollars more than at the same time in 1957.

The Institute of Life Insurance reports that total payments from private and semipublic programs for the protection of the individual and the family now come to 25½ billion dollars a year. This is nearly nine per cent of the total personal income after taxes of 300 ½ billion dollars a year.

The largest single sources is benefit payments.

In addition to the 25½ billion dollars payments the institute tabulates, individuals have large reserve pools in other programs not included in that list.

Venezuela, on the northern coast of South America, is second only to the United States in world production of crude oil, says the National Geographic Society.

LIZ AND MICKEY DO THE TOWN—Former gambling czar Mickey Cohen and his girl friend, Liz Renay, who was questioned in New York in the probe of the slaying of Albert Anastasia, are shown in an ice cream parlor. Earlier, they made the rounds of the Hollywood, Calif., nightclubs. Miss Renay is under subpoena to return to New York for further questioning by the District Attorney concerning $3,500 she gave to Cohen. She said it was a loan, since repaid. (International Soundphoto)

Some Peace Of Mind Due In Back Yard

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—Earl Reichert is building a 20-by-40-foot steel and concrete shelter in his back yard to give himself and his family of 17 "some peace of mind."

"You buy life insurance but no one benefits from it until you are dead. This kind of insurance keeps you alive," he said. "War will come sooner or later, and we want to be protected against bomb-blast and radiation."

Providing all the comforts of home, the shelter also will be a refuge against tornadoes.

Reichert, who owns a steel fabricating and construction business, estimates the shelter will cost up to $10,000.

The roof will be a 21-inch-thick concrete slab, reinforced with steel embedded 16-inch steel beams and three-quarter-inch steel resting on I-beams and steel columns. Covering it will be four feet of earth. Walls and floor will also be made of reinforced concrete.

A special well will provide water for sanitary facilities. A manually operated generator, radio, lights, cots, first-aid equipment and a Geiger counter will be kept in the shelter.

Imports 'Hurting' Ohio Oil Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's oil producing industry will lose more than $1 million this year because of competition from foreign imports, an Ohio oil executive has told Congress.

J. S. Straker of Zanesville, president of the Ohio Oil and Gas Assn., told the House Ways and Means Committee that the loss would reduce federal and state tax revenue and that "it will also mean unemployment for some of the 3,500 people employed in oil and gas production in Ohio."

America has been importing too much crude oil and other petroleum products, Straker said, and as a result "Ohio crude oil prices have been cut four times during the past two months."

By SAM DAWSON

The Federal Reserve Board, for example, issues statistics on consumer credit that are dull enough in themselves until you break them down into indicators of how people are reacting to the times.

Americans took on three billion dollars of installment credit in January. But that is less than they usually take on in that month. Much of the drop was in auto paper—a statistic that Detroit was already sadly aware of.

In that month Americans repaid 3½ billion dollars of consumer credit. But that is less than they usually do in January. The slow down in collections seems to reflect the shrinkage in many individual incomes. Debt that was contracted in an era of overtime paychecks is coming due in an era of little or no overtime and, for many, shorter work weeks and smaller paychecks.

Total consumer debt (both installment and noninstallment) outstanding at the end of January was 810 million dollars less than at the start of the month. But the total is 44 billion, or nearly three billion dollars more than at the same time in 1957.

The Institute of Life Insurance reports that total payments from private and semipublic programs for the protection of the individual and the family now come to 25½ billion dollars a year. This is nearly nine per cent of the total personal income after taxes of 300 ½ billion dollars a year.

The largest single sources is benefit payments.

In addition to the 25½ billion dollars payments the institute tabulates, individuals have large reserve pools in other programs not included in that list.

Venezuela, on the northern coast of South America, is second only to the United States in world production of crude oil, says the National Geographic Society.

LIZ AND MICKEY DO THE TOWN—Former gambling czar Mickey Cohen and his girl friend, Liz Renay, who was questioned in New York in the probe of the slaying of Albert Anastasia, are shown in an ice cream parlor. Earlier, they made the rounds of the Hollywood, Calif., nightclubs. Horsemen Hurry for Harness Season

Herald Staff Writer

A hobby has turned into an industry at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Some years ago a horsebarn was built at the Fairgrounds for horse-loving hobbyists. Today there are three barns. Thirteen professional stables are training 47 harness horses there.

Approximately 50 people are now engaged in harness racing and the ownership and training of harness horses, both pacers and trotters here. Several horses, owned and trained in Pickaway County have "hit the big time". Steamin' Demon is an example.

In fact, no other horse is mentioned in the same breath as Steamin' Demon, locally because this horse is now famous throughout the Midwest.

In 1957, Demon started 28 times winning five. He placed second twice, third five times and fourth five times. At the Lexington Trots, Lexington, Ky., Demon set the record on a mile track of 1:58: 4-5 and has a track record on a half mile track of 2:01:2-5 at Hilliards.

The harness racing field, a combination hobby and business, is one of fascination and thrills. Some people would call it a gamble and rightfully so, for a person can lose his shirt" if his horse goes lame or incurs some ailment that prevents the owner from regaining expense put out during the winter training season.

• • •

THE TRAINING of a harness racer takes extreme patience and skill. To a trainer a horse is almost human and has to be handled with "kid gloves". It has to be brought along during the winter at a certain pace and not overworked. Bringing a horse along too fast may mean the difference between a good year and a bad one.

When the racing season ends in October the work begins for the trainer. Young 2 and 3 year-old colts and fillies first must be broken to the harness and line driven. This usually takes a week. Then they are made familiar with the breaking cart.

The third week, the young horses begin to jog, which is a slow walk. During the third week they build up their leg muscles by jogging and are turned to the right way of the track to run. They start with three minute miles twice a week for a period of two weeks.

When the colt or fillie has been broken then the trainer must determine whether the horse is a pacer or a trotter.

It is now November and the colts start going two slow miles. As time progresses the speed increases and faster miles are added. By March the horses are jogging four miles and training one mile.

By the time racing season rolls around the horses are going two three minute miles and miles of 2:40 and 2:25. Now is the time the owners and trainers find out if their time has been futile or to advantage.

During this eight-month training period, jogging and running the horses is not all that is accomplished.

A TROTTER CAN be made into a pacer but it is a rarity when a pacer is converted into a trotter. The major determination of a horse and its ability is in the breeding.

A trainer's day begins at 7 a. m. when he feeds and waters his horses. After this chore there is jogging until noon, when the horses are fed again. In the afternoon numerous duties are performed such as cleaning the horses, the equipment and the stalls. Some of the horses may be shoed. The day comes to an end around 4:30 p. m. when the horses are fed for the third and final time. This routine runs six days a week and usually the owner will feed the animals on Sunday.

Headlining the stables housed at the Fairgrounds is the Jimmy Mace Stable, which is training 14 head this winter. Mace completed his second year of driving in 1957 and is figured to be one of the leading drivers and trainers in Ohio. Mace farms in addition to his training.

Mace, like most of the owners and trainers at the fairgrounds, races at Hilliards, Grandview, Northfield, Lebanon, Lexington, Ohio State Fair and many county fairs. Mace finished fifth in driving at Northfield last year.

Forest Short has eight head at the Fairgrounds. Clarence Helvering has 3; Porter Martin, 7; Clarence Myers, 2; Wayne Martin, 1; Joe Wolfe, 3; F and S, 1; Emmitt Ebenhack, 3; John Martindale, 2; Arlo Arledge, 2; and George Fissell, 2.

George Van Camp is stabling one horse in Circleville and has four in training in Macon, Ga. Van Camp recently returned from visiting his Georgia training site where one of Ohio's leading drivers, Eddie Boyer, is training the Van Camp horses. Boyer and Steamin' Demon have made the big time in the harness racing field.

Forest Short is also a popular and successful driver and trainer throughout Ohio. Short has a well-known horse in Jerrita Win. Short has started 62 times, in 1957, winning 14, finishing second six times and third, six times. This mare holds a mile track record 2:00 2-5 at Lexington, Ky.

The local Horseman's Assn. is a member of the U. S. Trotting Assn. located in Columbus, which is the headquarters for the United States. John Fissell is racing secretary for the Pickaway County group and works in an advisory capacity with the Pickaway County Agricultural Society.

READYING FOR HIS DAILY WORKOUT — Johnny Fissell, 356 Cedar Heights Rd., and Omar Sowers, Fairview Ave., are preparing to exercise a member of F and S Stables. Widow Creed, owned by Fissell and Ed Strawser, 275 Sunset Drive, is being hooked up to a jog cart for a three mile romp around the track at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. This early in the training season he will go a slow trot or pace. (Photo by Beaver Studio)

Dozen 3-Year-Olds Poised for Derby

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Led by stretch-running Silky Sullivan, a field of about a dozen 3-year-olds shapes up for the $100,000 added Santa Anita Derby Saturday.

The possible lineup, in addition to Silky, includes Old Pueblo, The Shoe, McTavish, Aliwar, Carrier X., Furyvan, Harcall, Martins Rullah, Sabredale and possibly Esteco and Initiate.

The track ordered entires closed this morning, 24 hours ahead of the usual time, to give the public more time to study the hopefuls.

Venturi Favored At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Cloudy skies and wet fairways awaited a field of 150 today as the $20,000 New Orleans Open got underway with youthful Ken Venturi still tabbed as the man to beat.

Heavy afternoon rains pelted the city Wednesday and a light drizzle fell during the night to make the course more difficult for Venturi and his fellow touring PGA professionals.

Venturi won the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open that ended Sunday and indicated he was ready to break the hold that Doug Ford, Lloyd Mangrum and a few of the other headliners have held for the past few years.

Ted Kleinhans, Syracuse University baseball coach, was a southpaw pitcher with the pennant winning Yankees of 1936.

National Hockey League pucks are kept frozen at 10 degrees before games to cut down the rolling. They cost $7.50 per dozen.

Jaycees Plan Matinee for Fairgrounds

John Fissell, secretary of the Horsemen's Assn., said the racing program will get under way at 1:30 p. m. with approximately 50 head of horses on hand. This is the last year that the proceeds from the race matinee will go toward building a grandstand at the fairgrounds. Present the Jaycees have $1,500 in the grandstand fund.

Fissell stated that the races will be better this year because the later date gives the trainers more time to prepare their horses. The actual racing season opens June 1 so the horses will just about be ready to roll. There will be four races and seven heats. Blankets will be given as purses and all horses will be locally trained. A mobile starting gate has been obtained.

Musial Picks Cards For Good Season

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Stan Musial, dean of the St. Louis Cardinals, says he thinks the team will have a better chance of winning the National League pennant this because of more depth.

He said the pitching depth has improved over last year and the second line strength is better.

Musial said the over-all Cardinal pitching balance looks the best to him since 1942, when the Red Birds won the pennant.

"If the Braves don't win it, we should," Musial said.

West Virginia Star Due To Enter OSU

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Tom Perdue, All-West Virginia football and baseball star at Vinson High School here, says he will enter Ohio State University next fall.

Perdue, a 6-foot 195-pounder, played fullback on state championship teams the last two years and was an all-state catcher in baseball for two years.

Dodgers Sign OSU Star For $50,000 Bonus

COLUMBUS (AP)—Frank Howard, Ohio State University's basketball and baseball star, has become the highest-paid OSU athlete ever to enter the professional ranks. He signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday for a bonus in excess of $50,000.

Some years ago a horsebarn was built at the Fairgrounds for horse-loving hobbyists. Today there are three barns. Thirteen professional stables are training 47 harness horses there.

Approximately 50 people are now engaged in harness racing and the ownership and training of harness horses, both pacers and trotters here. Several horses, owned and trained in Pickaway County have "hit the big time". Steamin' Demon is an example.

In fact, no other horse is mentioned in the same breath as Steamin' Demon, locally because this horse is now famous throughout the Midwest.

In 1957, Demon started 28 times winning five. He placed second twice, third five times and fourth five times. At the Lexington Trots, Lexington, Ky., Demon set the record on a mile track of 1:58: 4-5 and has a track record on a half mile track of 2:01:2-5 at Hilliards.

The harness racing field, a combination hobby and business, is one of fascination and thrills. Some people would call it a gamble and rightfully so, for a person can lose his shirt" if his horse goes lame or incurs some ailment that prevents the owner from regaining expense put out during the winter training season.

THE TRAINING of a harness racer takes extreme patience and skill. To a trainer a horse is almost human and has to be handled with "kid gloves". It has to be brought along during the winter at a certain pace and not overworked. Bringing a horse along too fast may mean the difference between a good year and a bad one.

When the racing season ends in October the work begins for the trainer. Young 2 and 3 year-old colts and fillies first must be broken to the harness and line driven. This usually takes a week. Then they are made familiar with the breaking cart.

The third week, the young horses begin to jog, which is a slow walk. During the third week they build up their leg muscles by jogging and are turned to the right way of the track to run. They start with three minute miles twice a week for a period of two weeks.

When the colt or fillie has been broken then the trainer must determine whether the horse is a pacer or a trotter.

It is now November and the colts start going two slow miles. As time progresses the speed increases and faster miles are added. By March the horses are jogging four miles and training one mile.

By the time racing season rolls around the horses are going two three minute miles and miles of 2:40 and 2:25. Now is the time the owners and trainers find out if their time has been futile or to advantage.

A TROTTER CAN be made into a pacer but it is a rarity when a pacer is converted into a trotter. The major determination of a horse and its ability is in the breeding.

A trainer's day begins at 7 a. m. when he feeds and waters his horses. After this chore there is jogging until noon, when the horses are fed again. In the afternoon numerous duties are performed such as cleaning the horses, the equipment and the stalls. Some of the horses may be shoed. The day comes to an end around 4:30 p. m. when the horses are fed for the third and final time. This routine runs six days a week and usually the owner will feed the animals on Sunday.

Headlining the stables housed at the Fairgrounds is the Jimmy Mace Stable, which is training 14 head this winter. Mace completed his second year of driving in 1957 and is figured to be one of the leading drivers and trainers in Ohio. Mace farms in addition to his training.

Mace, like most of the owners and trainers at the fairgrounds, races at Hilliards, Grandview, Northfield, Lebanon, Lexington, Ohio State Fair and many county fairs. Mace finished fifth in driving at Northfield last year.

Forest Short has eight head at the Fairgrounds. Clarence Helvering has 3; Porter Martin, 7; Clarence Myers, 2; Wayne Martin, 1; Joe Wolfe, 3; F and S, 1; Emmitt Ebenhack, 3; John Martindale, 2; Arlo Arledge, 2; and George Fissell, 2.

George Van Camp is stabling one horse in Circleville and has four in training in Macon, Ga. Van Camp recently returned from visiting his Georgia training site where one of Ohio's leading drivers, Eddie Boyer, is training the Van Camp horses. Boyer and Steamin' Demon have made the big time in the harness racing field.

Forest Short is also a popular and successful driver and trainer throughout Ohio. Short has a well-known horse in Jerrita Win. Short has started 62 times, in 1957, winning 14, finishing second six times and third, six times. This mare holds a mile track record 2:00 2-5 at Lexington, Ky.

The local Horseman's Assn. is a member of the U. S. Trotting Assn. located in Columbus, which is the headquarters for the United States. John Fissell is racing secretary for the Pickaway County group and works in an advisory capacity with the Pickaway County Agricultural Society.

READYING FOR HIS DAILY WORKOUT — Johnny Fissell, 356 Cedar Heights Rd., and Omar Sowers, Fairview Ave., are preparing to exercise a member of F and S Stables. Widow Creed, owned by Fissell and Ed Strawser, 275 Sunset Drive, is being hooked up to a jog cart for a three mile romp around the track at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. This early in the training season he will go a slow trot or pace. (Photo by Beaver Studio)

Dozen 3-Year-Olds Poised for Derby

The possible lineup, in addition to Silky, includes Old Pueblo, The Shoe, McTavish, Aliwar, Carrier X., Furyvan, Harcall, Martins Rullah, Sabredale and possibly Esteco and Initiate.

National Hockey League pucks are kept frozen at 10 degrees before games to cut down the rolling. They cost $7.50 per dozen.

Venturi Favored At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Cloudy skies and wet fairways awaited a field of 150 today as the $20,000 New Orleans Open got underway with youthful Ken Venturi still tabbed as the man to beat.

Heavy afternoon rains pelted the city Wednesday and a light drizzle fell during the night to make the course more difficult for Venturi and his fellow touring PGA professionals.

Venturi won the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open that ended Sunday and indicated he was ready to break the hold that Doug Ford, Lloyd Mangrum and a few of the other headliners have held for the past few years.

Dodgers Sign OSU Star For $50,000 Bonus

COLUMBUS (AP)—Frank Howard, Ohio State University's basketball and baseball star, has become the highest-paid OSU athlete ever to enter the professional ranks. He signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday for a bonus in excess of $50,000.

Jaycees Plan Matinee for Fairgrounds

John Fissell, secretary of the Horsemen's Assn., said the racing program will get under way at 1:30 p. m. with approximately 50 head of horses on hand. This is the last year that the proceeds from the race matinee will go toward building a grandstand at the fairgrounds. Present the Jaycees have $1,500 in the grandstand fund.

Fissell stated that the races will be better this year because the later date gives the trainers more time to prepare their horses. The actual racing season opens June 1 so the horses will just about be ready to roll. There will be four races and seven heats. Blankets will be given as purses and all horses will be locally trained. A mobile starting gate has been obtained.

Musial Picks Cards For Good Season

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Stan Musial, dean of the St. Louis Cardinals, says he thinks the team will have a better chance of winning the National League pennant this because of more depth.

He said the pitching depth has improved over last year and the second line strength is better.

Musial said the over-all Cardinal pitching balance looks the best to him since 1942, when the Red Birds won the pennant.

"If the Braves don't win it, we should," Musial said.

West Virginia Star Due To Enter OSU

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Tom Perdue, All-West Virginia football and baseball star at Vinson High School here, says he will enter Ohio State University next fall.

Perdue, a 6-foot 195-pounder, played fullback on state championship teams the last two years and was an all-state catcher in baseball for two years.

Cincinnati Ace Seen as Cinch For Point Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, who makes it look easy when he's on the basketball court, may have clinched the major college season scoring title Wednesday night without lifting a finger.

While All America Oscar was idlin', All America Elgin Baylor of Seattle was hitting one of his season low marks, scoring a mere 21 points in a 73-60 victory over Idaho State.

Now, with each assured of two more games depending on how their teams go in the NCAA Tournament, Robertson leads Baylor by eight-tenths of a point with a 34.76 average to the Seattle ace's 33.96. Eight-tenths is no runaway but, broken down on the basis of two more starts for each, it means Baylor would have to outscore Oscar by 20 points to top the amazing Bearcat sophomore.

Robertson closes his regular season against Xavier of Ohio Saturday night before moving into the NCAA regional at Lawrence, Kan., March 14. Baylor has a pre-NCAA date with Bradley next Monday.

The Bonnies, seeded third for next week's National Invitation Tournament at New York earlier in the day, fell behind by nine points at halftime and never threatened against the Dukes, only 10-11 for the season.

Dayton drew the top seed for the NIT Tournament beginning March 13, with defending champion Bradley No. 2 and Utah of the Skyline Conference No. 4.

Butler of Indianapolis, winner of 9 of its last 10 for a 16-9 record, was named to complete the 12-team NIT field and paired against St. John's of Brooklyn in the tourney's opening doubleheader. St. Joseph's (Pa.) faces St. Peters (N.J.) in the other game.

Niagara, Xavier of Ohio, Utah, St. Bonaventure, Fordham, and St. Francis play their first games March 15 with Bradley and Dayton moving into action March 18.

Fordham, Niagara and St. Joseph's warmed up with victories Wednesday night. Jim Cunningham fired in 36 points in Fordham's 107-78 rout of Rutgers while St. Joseph's, coming from nine points back with five minutes remaining, nipped LeMoyne (N.Y.) 69-68 on Bobby McNeill's free throw with four seconds to play.

Niagara, closing out a 19-6 regular season, whipped Syracuse 78-63 as Boo Ellis netted 22 points and grabbed 27 rebounds for a 502 total that leads the country.

Wave of Upsets in Class A Cage Tournaments Chalked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A wave of stunning upsets swept across Ohio's Class A high school district tournament scene Wednesday night, toppling a host of highly-touted talent.

Ousted from competition were Glenford's Golden Horde, rated the No. 1 team in the state, and colorful little Bethel of Monroe County, the No. 3 choice and the last of the 1957 state tourney finalists.

In Class AA, five of Middletown's top 10 challengers won games Wednesday night. They include Cleveland East Tech (2), Zanesville (3), Elyria (8), Hamilton (10) and Cleveland St. Ignatius (10). Only Salem has dropped from the elite in the larger school division, although only 54 of the 387 starters are still around.

The original field of 646 in Class A has been trimmed to 45, and both divisions will be down to 16 by Saturday night. The 16 in each class go into regional play next week to name the state tourney finalists.

Only one game will send a pair of top 10 teams at each other in district play, Hamilton meeting Middletown Saturday at Cincinnati for a regional spot. The Big Blue (17-3) has been beaten twice this year by the Middies who have a 21-0 record for the year and 73 straight over three seasons.

Wednesday night's victories placed Elyria, Cleveland East Tech, St. Ignatius, Zanesville and Hamilton within one game of a trip to the regionals. The payoff contests are Saturday. Toledo Scott (4), Columbus North (6) and Cincinnati St. Xavier (7) must win two to get into next week's competition.

Indiana-MSU Battle To Tell Big Ten Tale

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten's two best basketball teams, 1957 co-champions Indiana and Michigan State, meet in a winner-take-all game Saturday. The victor will get the conference crown as well as a berth in the NCAA tourney.

Big Ten statistics rate Indiana as the top offensive squad and Michigan State as the leading defensive team in the conference. Each has a 9-4 record going into the finale at East Lansing, Mich., which will be shown on a 40-station regional television network at 4:30 p. m. EST.

The conference statistics confirm opinion that it shapes up as a heated battle. The Spartans have held opponents to an average yield of 69.2 points and have been scoring from the floor with a .410 percentage. The Hoosiers, on the other hand, have averaged 84.2 points in each of 13 games, and have a .408 marksmanship record.

In the Hoosier ranks is the Big Ten's ace scorer, Archie Dees, but the Spartans have the conference's best rebounder, Johnny Green. Dees has averaged 26.8 points per game to top the league. Green has averaged 16.1 rebounds for a total of 209.

Hamner Ignores Pessimistic Medic

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Only 15 months ago Granny Hamner was advised by a doctor he would never play baseball again. Today, the veteran Phillie infielder is practically a cinch to open the 1958 season at second base.

"Only a miracle would enable you to play again," the doctor said. "It would be an act of God if you could swing a bat right."

Six months before, Hamner had jammed his left shoulder diving for a ball. He ripped a tendon right next to an old injury — another torn tendon — that still had not fully healed.

NEW ROLE FOR BOB — Former great pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, Bob Feller will stay in baseball this year as a sports-caster for the Mutual Broadcasting system's "Game of the Day" feature. (International)

Warriors Seeking Spot in Playoff

NEW YORK (AP) — Philadelphia can close the book on another disastrous campaign for the New York Knickerbockers tonight by defeating the Cincinnati Royals on the Warriors' home court.

A victory for the Warriors would enable them to cinch the third and last playoff position in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn. and insure the Knicks of a cellar finish for the second straight season.

The Knicks reached the "brink" Wednesday night when they lost to the Syracuse Nationals 102-91. Now the best the Knickerbockers can do is tie for third place.

Wooster's Cage Coach Quits after 32 Years

WOOSTER (AP)—Mose Hole, College of Wooster basketball coach for 32 years, retired from the cage game today. He turned the job over to James Ewers, his junior varisy aide.

Hole will continue as athletic director of the Scots, whom he led to a 15-4 season this year and third place in the Ohio Conference. Wooster closes against Case Tech tonight.

In 32 seasons Hole's quintets won 411 games against 181 losses.

Toledo Wins Team Nod in Golden Gloves

CHICAGO (AP) — Toledo captured the lion's share of Golden Gloves Wednesday night, winning the team trophy for the first time in the big amateur boxing show in Chicago Stadium and taking three individual crowns.

An hour of the 14-bout program was televised nationally. During this time, Wilbur McClure of the Toledo squad won, the middleweight title. He defeated southpaw Jim Martin of Wichita, Kan.

They as well as other champions will be on the Chicago team that meets New York's best in the annual intercity bouts at Madison Square Garden March 24. Chicago has won 15 intercity championships. New York has taken seven and there have been eight ties. Chicago won last year 7-1 in Chicago Stadium.

Chicago will have another strong team. In addition to the Toledo champions the squad will include these:

Lightweight Billy Collins, Nashville, who defeated Adam Ellison, Zanesville, Ohio.

Top crowd to see a Southern Assn. baseball game in 1957 turned up when 10,648 came out at Atlanta on Labor Day to see Nashville meet the Crackers.

Laurelville Quint Ousted From A Tourney at Athens

The Laurelville Wildcats were dropped from the Class A district at Athens last night by Middleport, 68-55.

The Middies roared to a 15-10 first quarter lead and sewed up the game in the second period with a 20 point outburst to the Wildcats' nine points.

Laurelville was cold throughout the first half. When it finally hit its stride in the second half the damage had been done and victory conceded. Middleport won the game under the bankboards as Tom Eveland was the only Wildcat able to grab rebounds.

By the end of the third quarter the Middie led 50-35 as their experience playing Class AA teams paid off. Middleport played in the Southeastern double AA league and entered the Class A tourney with a poor record finishing last in league play.

Speedy Gary Allen led the Wildcat offense with 15 points followed by Eveland and Pritchard with 13 and 11 points respectively. Laurelville won 16 games this year, losing five of its seven contests in the last nine games.

Cincinnati Ace Seen as Cinch For Point Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, who makes it look easy when he's on the basketball court, may have clinched the major college season scoring title Wednesday night without lifting a finger.

While All America Oscar was idlin', All America Elgin Baylor of Seattle was hitting one of his season low marks, scoring a mere 21 points in a 73-60 victory over Idaho State.

Now, with each assured of two more games depending on how their teams go in the NCAA Tournament, Robertson leads Baylor by eight-tenths of a point with a 34.76 average to the Seattle ace's 33.96. Eight-tenths is no runaway but, broken down on the basis of two more starts for each, it means Baylor would have to outscore Oscar by 20 points to top the amazing Bearcat sophomore.

Robertson closes his regular season against Xavier of Ohio Saturday night before moving into the NCAA regional at Lawrence, Kan., March 14. Baylor has a pre-NCAA date with Bradley next Monday.

In the East, much-thumped Duquesne furnished the highlight with a 55-54 upset of a St. Bonaventure team that had won 15 in a row.

The Bonnies, seeded third for next week's National Invitation Tournament at New York earlier in the day, fell behind by nine points at halftime and never threatened against the Dukes, only 10-11 for the season.

Dayton drew the top seed for the NIT Tournament beginning March 13, with defending champion Bradley No. 2 and Utah of the Skyline Conference No. 4.

Butler of Indianapolis, winner of 9 of its last 10 for a 16-9 record, was named to complete the 12-team NIT field and paired against St. John's of Brooklyn in the tourney's opening doubleheader. St. Joseph's (Pa.) faces St. Peters (N.J.) in the other game.

Niagara, Xavier of Ohio, Utah, St. Bonaventure, Fordham, and St. Francis play their first games March 15 with Bradley and Dayton moving into action March 18.

Fordham, Niagara and St. Joseph's warmed up with victories Wednesday night. Jim Cunningham fired in 36 points in Fordham's 107-78 rout of Rutgers while St. Joseph's, coming from nine points back with five minutes remaining, nipped LeMoyne (N.Y.) 69-68 on Bobby McNeill's free throw with four seconds to play.

Niagara, closing out a 19-6 regular season, whipped Syracuse 78-63 as Boo Ellis netted 22 points and grabbed 27 rebounds for a 502 total that leads the country.

Wave of Upsets in Class A Cage Tournaments Chalked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A wave of stunning upsets swept across Ohio's Class A high school district tournament scene Wednesday night, toppling a host of highly-touted talent.

Ousted from competition were Glenford's Golden Horde, rated the No. 1 team in the state, and colorful little Bethel of Monroe County, the No. 3 choice and the last of the 1957 state tourney finalists.

Glenford's 24 - game winning streak was halted rudely by Buchtel-York at Athens, 58 to 41, the winners running their record to 22-1. Bethel and Maysville matched 22-1 records going into their game at Zanesville, but Maysville (formerly South Zanesville) came out of it with an 86-73 conquest.

In Class AA, five of Middletown's top 10 challengers won games Wednesday night. They include Cleveland East Tech (2), Zanesville (3), Elyria (8), Hamilton (10) and Cleveland St. Ignatius (10). Only Salem has dropped from the elite in the larger school division, although only 54 of the 387 starters are still around.

The original field of 646 in Class A has been trimmed to 45, and both divisions will be down to 16 by Saturday night. The 16 in each class go into regional play next week to name the state tourney finalists.

Only one game will send a pair of top 10 teams at each other in district play, Hamilton meeting Middletown Saturday at Cincinnati for a regional spot. The Big Blue (17-3) has been beaten twice this year by the Middies who have a 21-0 record for the year and 73 straight over three seasons.

Wednesday night's victories placed Elyria, Cleveland East Tech, St. Ignatius, Zanesville and Hamilton within one game of a trip to the regionals. The payoff contests are Saturday. Toledo Scott (4), Columbus North (6) and Cincinnati St. Xavier (7) must win two to get into next week's competition.

Indiana-MSU Battle To Tell Big Ten Tale

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten's two best basketball teams, 1957 co-champions Indiana and Michigan State, meet in a winner-take-all game Saturday. The victor will get the conference crown as well as a berth in the NCAA tourney.

Big Ten statistics rate Indiana as the top offensive squad and Michigan State as the leading defensive team in the conference. Each has a 9-4 record going into the finale at East Lansing, Mich., which will be shown on a 40-station regional television network at 4:30 p. m. EST.

The conference statistics confirm opinion that it shapes up as a heated battle. The Spartans have held opponents to an average yield of 69.2 points and have been scoring from the floor with a .410 percentage. The Hoosiers, on the other hand, have averaged 84.2 points in each of 13 games, and have a .408 marksmanship record.

In the Hoosier ranks is the Big Ten's ace scorer, Archie Dees, but the Spartans have the conference's best rebounder, Johnny Green. Dees has averaged 26.8 points per game to top the league. Green has averaged 16.1 rebounds for a total of 209.

Hamner Ignores Pessimistic Medic

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Only 15 months ago Granny Hamner was advised by a doctor he would never play baseball again. Today, the veteran Phillie infielder is practically a cinch to open the 1958 season at second base.

"Only a miracle would enable you to play again," the doctor said. "It would be an act of God if you could swing a bat right."

Six months before, Hamner had jammed his left shoulder diving for a ball. He ripped a tendon right next to an old injury — another torn tendon — that still had not fully healed.

NEW ROLE FOR BOB — Former great pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, Bob Feller will stay in baseball this year as a sports-caster for the Mutual Broadcasting system's "Game of the Day" feature. (International)

Warriors Seeking Spot in Playoff

NEW YORK (AP) — Philadelphia can close the book on another disastrous campaign for the New York Knickerbockers tonight by defeating the Cincinnati Royals on the Warriors' home court.

A victory for the Warriors would enable them to cinch the third and last playoff position in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn. and insure the Knicks of a cellar finish for the second straight season.

The Knicks reached the "brink" Wednesday night when they lost to the Syracuse Nationals 102-91. Now the best the Knickerbockers can do is tie for third place.

Wooster's Cage Coach Quits after 32 Years

WOOSTER (AP)—Mose Hole, College of Wooster basketball coach for 32 years, retired from the cage game today. He turned the job over to James Ewers, his junior varisy aide.

Hole will continue as athletic director of the Scots, whom he led to a 15-4 season this year and third place in the Ohio Conference. Wooster closes against Case Tech tonight.

In 32 seasons Hole's quintets won 411 games against 181 losses.

Toledo Wins Team Nod in Golden Gloves

CHICAGO (AP) — Toledo captured the lion's share of Golden Gloves Wednesday night, winning the team trophy for the first time in the big amateur boxing show in Chicago Stadium and taking three individual crowns.

An hour of the 14-bout program was televised nationally. During this time, Wilbur McClure of the Toledo squad won, the middleweight title. He defeated southpaw Jim Martin of Wichita, Kan.

They as well as other champions will be on the Chicago team that meets New York's best in the annual intercity bouts at Madison Square Garden March 24. Chicago has won 15 intercity championships. New York has taken seven and there have been eight ties. Chicago won last year 7-1 in Chicago Stadium.

Chicago will have another strong team. In addition to the Toledo champions the squad will include these:

Lightweight Billy Collins, Nashville, who defeated Adam Ellison, Zanesville, Ohio.

Top crowd to see a Southern Assn. baseball game in 1957 turned up when 10,648 came out at Atlanta on Labor Day to see Nashville meet the Crackers.

Laurelville Quint Ousted From A Tourney at Athens

The Laurelville Wildcats were dropped from the Class A district at Athens last night by Middleport, 68-55.

The Middies roared to a 15-10 first quarter lead and sewed up the game in the second period with a 20 point outburst to the Wildcats' nine points.

Ten men figured in the Middleport scoring with Whitlatch leading the way with 14 points followed by Erwin with 11.

Laurelville was cold throughout the first halt. When it finally hit its stride in the second half the damage had been done and victory conceded. Middleport won the game under the bankboards as Tom Eveland was the only Wildcat ahle to grab rebounds.

By the end of the third quarter the Middle led 50-35 as their experience playing Class AA teams paid off. Middleport played in the Southeastern double AA league and entered the Class A tourney with a poor record finishing last in league play.

Speedy Gary Allen led the Wildcat offense with 15 points followed by Eveland and Pritchard with 13 and 11 points respectively. Laurelville won 16 games this year, losing five of its seven contests in the last nine games.

What's Wrong with Economy?

Farm Areas, Builders Lead List of Economic Optimists

Editor's Note: Following is the fourth in a series of articles surveying conditions in America's troublesome recession.

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Business is no good," says the operator of a big hotel on the Las Vegas gambling strip. "Last year we were turning down 50 reservations every weekend. Now we're only turning down 40."

Which helps prove that even with the troublesome recession the country is experiencing there are bright spots. And the encouragement isn't only on the Las Vegas dice tables.

You also see it in the hopes of builders with spring weather coming and the freeze on building money credit thawing.

The same search by Associated Press newsmen that turned up the gloomy economic facts of life in the jobless areas of Michigan, Pennsylvania and California also brought glowing accounts of conditions elsewhere.

In Florida, where migrant field hands idled by the crop freezes are being fed in soup kitchens, business is booming on the state's west coast. There has been an influx of plant construction workers and "snowbirds," the winter vacationers from the North.

In Chicago, Robert C. Tyson, finance chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., said two factors alone should prevent any repeat of 1929. Then, he said, we had a highly speculative stock market financed on thin margins with borrowed money. Now, he said, the bulk of stock market holdings are self-financed.

Tyson's second reason: "Home mortgaging practice has shifted from lump sum, short maturity loans, to monthly amortized, 20-to-30 year obligations, more like rent. Much of the debt is also guaranteed or insured by the government."

Other businessmes now are paying tribute to the unemployment compensation part of the Social Security system. An eight-billion-dollar insurance pool is being tapped by the nearly five million jobless to make sure they don't starve or go homeless. This keeps them in the market as buyers, to some extent at least.

Also, for those rightly worried about the present shortage of jobs, particularly in the nation's factories, there is the encouraging word from many economists that we are really headed for a labor shortage in a few years—that there will be plenty of work—and pay—for all.

It's odd, but two of the sectors that worried the economists most last year—farming and construction — now are improving and carrying much of the hopes for pulling the country up again.

Nebraska, coming out of a bumper crop year after a series of bad ones, counted a 43 per cent hike in crop dollar values which gave the state's farmers 200 million dollars more to spend.

Threaded through The AP's survey data are strong suggestions of the mobility and fluidity of the labor force. Workers can and do adjust to other jobs — go elsewhere looking for work.

The electrical manufacturing industry generally has been hurting. People more or less ran out of money to buy home appliances, TV sets, etc. But the electronics end of the industry is beginning to pick up again and with renewed defense spending. And withdrawal of small appliances from fair trading by several firms may help sales.

Living costs still are soaring at record levels. But there's some encouragement here too. Raw material prices have sagged, for such things as rubber, metal, hides, wool, gasoline, fuel oil, and lumber. Government economists predict sooner or later this will drift into the retail level as lower consumer prices.

Tomorrow: Antislump medicines.

Ohio Higher Education Panel Urges Continuation of Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill's Commission on Education Beyond the High School is urging establishment of an interim commission to carry on its work.

The commission was appointed by the governor last March and will make its final report in April.

The sixth open letter from the commission chairman, Dr. John C. Baker, president of Ohio University, and executive secretary Clarence E. Ficken, dean at Ohio Wesleyan University, states:

"It is our belief that such a group, composed of seven to nine members appointed by the governor and approved by the Senate, should serve from 1959 to 1964."

Members of the proposed commission would serve without pay and should be persons "familiar with various aspects of higher education—privately financed institutions, municipal universities, state universities—and public schools concerned with developments in post high school education," the educators say.

The present commission was appointed March 11, 1957, to study the problems of higher education relating both to the present and the future and to prepare recommendations which would help meet these problems.

The commission, however, reported that it has discovered that no recommendation, idea, or proposed set of laws can meet the continuing problems facing post-high school education in the state.

A formal organization is needed to solve the anticipated as well as the unanticipated problems in the years to come, the letter says.

"The function of such an organization should be to collect data, to advise and to guide, not to dominate. For new two-year colleges, if established, technical institutes and similar developments, the role of a new commission should be defined by the Legislature," the educators report.

The letter lists seven possible duties for the proposed group. They include:

1. Collection of adequate and comparable statistical data of all kinds.
2. Assemble, analyze and disseminate information relative to the status, needs and development of all education beyond the high school.
3. Supervise the testing and administering of the proposed state scholarship programs.
4. To articulate and integrate the various levels of public school education beyond the high school in anticipation of the forthcoming period of increasing enrollments.
5. Administer legislation relating to local and regional programs for education beyond the high school of a terminal nature.
6. Advise, upon request, any institution of higher education in the state.
7. Direct the development of possible statewide television facilities designed to offer instruction to colleges and universities and to citizens of the state in general.

Judge Rules Out Use Of Aging Indictment

CINCINNATI (AP)—Judge Otis R. Hess has ruled out further prosecution for Merton E. Turney, 41, on a 16-year-old indictment that didn't come to light until he was arrested again.

Prosecution officials asked Wednesday that the old indictment, charging Turney with receiving stolen goods, be dropped for lack of evidence. The old indictment came to light last week when Turney was arrested for converting postal funds to his own use.

About Third Fail Driving Tests in Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—About a third of the people who took driver license examinations in 1957 failed to make the grade, the Ohio Highway Patrol reported today.

Capt. M. A. Mock, chief of the examining section, said 467,851 persons took the tests last year. Biggest reason for failure was "just being a poor driver."

Of the 158,683 failures, Capt. Mock said, 57,042 lost out in the road test and another 40,368 were unable to properly park a car. Another 24,866 failed the written test on safety laws and rules, and 14,095 could not properly identify road signs. Poor vision accounted for 5,971 failures.

Not all the failures were people just learning to drive, Capt. Mock said. The old hands who had let their license expire or came to Ohio from other states accounted for 35,970 of the failures of 150,272 old drivers taking tests.

Drivers who fail initial examinations can take another test.

Navy Man To Face Cincinnati Questioning

Minister-Dad Slayer, 14, Is Put in School

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — John Boyett, 14, who shot his minister father to death a week ago as he prepared a switch, has been committed to the New Mexico School for Boys.

John was sent to the institution until he is 18 after a hearing in which his mother said she wished she had broken up the home two years ago as she had planned.

The Rev. Leonard J. Boyett, 41, pastor of the Grandview Baptist church, was shot while he prepared to punish John and his twin brother Jack.

"I wish I had followed my first intuition and left my husband two years ago," Mrs. Boyett told Dist. Judge W. T. Scoggin. "But I was afraid a broken family would be hard on the boys."

The distraught mother testified she once told her husband she would refuse to attend social functions if he did not stop "fussing at the boys in public."

Mrs. Boyett said her sons were not allowed to go the movies or attend school dances.

However, mental deficiency does occur when the number of brain cells are below a certain limit. No one knows for sure what this limit is.

Q. Can disease germs be passed from one person to another by use of a single fever thermometer?

A. Yes. Some hospitals provide individual thermometers for each patient. In other cases the nurse may use five or six thermometers to take the temperature of thirty or so patients. Between patients the thermometers are kept in an antiseptic solution. In the home the medicine chest thermometer should be thoroughly cleansed after each use. A good way is to use soap and warm water and then wipe the thermometer with cotton saturated with alcohol. Rubbing alcohol will do.

What's Wrong with Economy?

Farm Areas, Builders Lead List of Economic Optimists

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Business is no good," says the operator of a big hotel on the Las Vegas gambling strip. "Last year we were turning down 50 reservations every weekend. Now we're only turning down 40."

Which helps prove that even with the troublesome recession the country is experiencing there are bright spots. And the encouragement isn't only on the Las Vegas dice tables.

You also see it in the hopes of builders with spring weather coming and the freeze on building money credit thawing.

The same search by Associated Press newsmen that turned up the gloomy economic facts of life in the jobless areas of Michigan, Pennsylvania and California also brought glowing accounts of conditions elsewhere.

In Florida, where migrant field hands idled by the crop freezes are being fed in soup kitchens, business is booming on the state's west coast. There has been an influx of plant construction workers and "snowbirds," the winter vacationers from the North.

A survey of 444 firms by the Chamber of Commerce at Buffalo, N.Y., showed 84 per cent expect business to equal or exceed last year. About a fourth expect to expand employment this year.

In Chicago, Robert C. Tyson, finance chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., said two factors alone should prevent any repeat of 1929. Then, he said, we had a highly speculative stock market financed on thin margins with borrowed money. Now, he said, the bulk of stock market holdings are self-financed.

Tyson's second reason: "Home mortgaging practice has shifted from lump sum, short maturity loans, to monthly amortized, 20-to-30 year obligations, more like rent. Much of the debt is also guaranteed or insured by the government."

Other businessmes now are paying tribute to the unemployment compensation part of the Social Security system. An eight-billion-dollar insurance pool is being tapped by the nearly five million jobless to make sure they don't starve or go homeless. This keeps them in the market as buyers, to some extent at least.

Also, for those rightly worried about the present shortage of jobs, particularly in the nation's factories, there is the encouraging word from many economists that we are really headed for a labor shortage in a few years—that there will be plenty of work—and pay—for all.

The Hidden Tax

With little more than a month left in which to settle with Uncle Sam for last year's income taxes, more American taxpayers will be grumbling daily under the load imposed upon by their government.

They cannot help but wonder, as they note the large figure already deducted from their paychecks, or yet to be paid, why a supposedly free society must exact such penance from its inhabitants.

Not so obvious are the many thousands of hidden taxes paid daily by every consumer. Taxes which have become a part of the selling price of every commodity, although the consumer never sees them and in many cases is not aware of their existence.

An economist for the Brookings Institute of Washington, D. C., on the subject of hidden taxes says:

"If I were compelled to answer the question concerning the number of taxes reflected in the price of a loaf of bread my answer would be not less than 10,000 and probably as many as 50,000. The essential point is, of course, that there is no logical point at which to start counting."

Most of these taxes are accumulated along the way before the actual manufacturing processes which produce the bread. They are the taxes on the machines that made the machines that made the machines that planted and harvested the tax-supported wheat, grown on tax-paid land by an incoming tax-paying farmer.

Inasmuch as each of these layers of tax-paid processes itself branches out into various directions, it becomes impossible to trace the total taxes in a finished product back to any point of origin.

This, then, is at least one point in favor of the annual filing of income tax statements—it lets the taxpayer know in no uncertain terms his direct share of the cost of government. Among those who must cough up a final payment there must be some who wish this, too, were hidden.

The Boss Is the Boss Again

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — The downturn in jobs has made that forgotten figurehead of business, the boss, a person of importance once more.

It always happens that way.

When there are more jobs than people, nobody pays much attention to the boss. He tiptoes around the place talking to himself for fear that if he says something out loud he'll hurt somebody's feelings, and the guy'll quit and go to work for a competitor.

But when there are more people than jobs, such as right now, the boss again becomes industry's "father image." The problem of the wise worker then becomes one of how to please his paycheck pappy.

So it is time to revive again a forgotten American art, the art of apple polishing.

Your older hired hands, who've survived bad times before, know how to do this instinctively, just as an old boxer never quite forgets his footwork or how to protect himself in the clinches.

So here are a few tips on how to butter up a boss:

1. First, find out who the boss is. If there is a fellow in your office who used to sneak out to play golf at 2 p. m. but now goes around picking paper clips off the floor to cut down expenses, look no farther.

2. Keep your feet off your desk while he is in view. If he speaks to you, rise to your feet and address him as "sir," a polite term used in ancient times to one's superiors. It is not necessary, however, to salute him—not unless times get really bad.

3. Maintain a serious mien at all times except if the boss tells a joke. In this case laugh first and longest, but don't overdo it. It isn't wise to let the boss know how scared you really are.

4. Never interrupt his old joke to tell a new one of your own. thrift doesn't hurt anyone, chief. The boss no longer wants you to be amusing on company time. The only reason he is telling you a joke is to keep his own spirits up.

5. When going to the water cooler, stride up quickly and self-confidently, as if you had really earned the right to a drink, gulp a fast one, and return to your desk. Do not linger around the water cooler to ambush the giggling stenographers. Those days are over for the duration.

6. Around noon go into the boss's office, ask him if you can borrow some salt and pepper, then explain, "A little personal thrift doesn't hurt anyone, chief. I'm bringing my lunch to the office now."

Chester Fritz -- American Abroad

By George Sokolsky

An item of news will, on occasion, arouse nostalgic memories of exciting days decades ago. So it was when I read in the "Grand Forks Herald," that Chester Fritz has given $1,000,000 to the University of North Dakota for a library. The newspaper account said that this large sum was given "in appreciation of what my native State of North Dakota did in furnishing the foundations of my academic education."

I recall almost to the day I first met Chester Fritz. He had come to China some years before as a flour salesman for a West Coast firm, but he became interested in foreign exchange and was working for the American Metals Company. This was more than 30 years ago.

Foreign exchange is one of the most interesting and most complicated of human occupations. It is only for professionals; the amateur can sometimes win if he has a stroke of luck and luck comes only once.

To succeed in maintaining a position in foreign exchange, one must know about everything that is going on in the world. An error of judgment as to what is likely to occur in 30 days or 90 days can wipe out a fortune.

When the world is normal, all export and import houses, all banks and even governments engage in foreign exchange because of the phonomenon that currencies do not always have the same value. The buyer and seller of goods in some other country tries to protect himself against loss through exchange fluctuations. Sometimes such fluctuations can be sufficient to wipe out a profit altogether.

So, Chester Fritz, born in Buxton, N. D., graduate of the University of Washington, found himself in China in 1924, forced by his job to learn foreign exchange and becoming one of the masters in this field. In due course, he and some Shanghai friends organized the firm of Swan, Culbertson and Fritz. The three partners were very young, very enthusiastic and set out to compete with the large British banking houses then existent in Shanghai.

It was not long before they had created an altogether new field of endeavor, arising our of unsettled conditions in China, namely that rich Chinese were purchasing, through them, huge quantities of American securities and American currency as a means of protecting themselves against an inevitable future.

It is interesting that when the crash came in 1929, many of the Chinese who had purchased American securities were imperiled but they stuck by the American firm because no matter what they lost, they were still better off than what was happening to their wealth in China. Thus, whereas there was a flight of capital from the United States, the flight of capital to the United States from China continued.

After an internment during World War II by the Japanese, Fritz began his world travels, searching out all the odd and end spots to make sure that he missed nothing. He finally settled in Rome, returning to the United States at intervals. And when here always he went up to North Dakota on a sentimental journey. That is where he was born and that is where he belongs. His nostalgia for his native soil is almost oriental in spirit.

I once asked Chester Fritz what he would do with his money. He told me he would leave it all to his native state. He was not married then and I said to myself that someday he would have a family and then he would change his mind. Fritz is married now, but apparently he has not changed his mind.

In many ways, the Horatio Alger story never dies. Chester Fritz, the boy, could not imagine one million dollars. Chester Fritz, the man, gives such a sum to a university at which he studied for only two years. Here is a success story that is worthy of note in these days when men seek a security guaranteed by law. Fritz never had any kind of security in his life, every moment of which has been a gamble against historic forces. Much of it was spent in war, revolution and civil war; in areas where false judgments could mean an early death.

Self-effacing, shy, in many ways lonely, Chester Fritz, like the Chinese among whom he lived so long, has built himself a memorial while he still lives.

"Your seams are crooked!"

More than One Type Poison

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

All poison cases are not caused by swallowing harmful medicines or chemicals. In fact, about half of the nation's 6,000 annual reported cases of poisoning are caused by inhaling gases. Then there are things like snake bites, skin and eye contamination and chemical burns.

All can be extremely dangerous and require prompt and adequate first-aid treatment.

The American Medical Association's Committee on Toxicology has approved the following procedures:

Inhaled Poisons: carry the victim—do not let him walk—to fresh air immediately. Open all doors and windows; loosen all tight clothing; apply artificial respiration if breathing has stopped or is irregular; wrap him in a blanket to prevent chilling; keep him as quiet as possible; do not give him alcohol in any form.

If the patient is convulsing, keep him in bed in a semidark room and avoid any jarring or noise.

Skin Contamination: drench the skin with water, using a shower, hose or faucet. Apply a stream of water on the skin while removing clothing and cleanse the skin thoroughly with water.

Washing rapidly is very important in reducing the extent of the injury.

Eye Contamination: hold eyelids open and wash eyes immediately with a gentle stream of running water. Delay of even a few seconds greatly increases extent of the injury. Continue washing until the doctor arrives.

Do not use chemicals to treat eye contamination since they may increase the extent of the injury.

Injected Poisons, such as snake and scorpion bites: make the victim lie down as quickly as possible; don't give him alcohol in any form. Apply a tourniquet between the bite and the heart and apply an ice pack to the site of the bite. Carry the patient—don't let him walk—to a doctor or hospital.

The tourniquet should be loosened for one minute every 15 minutes. The pulse in the vessels below the tourniquet should not disappear, nor should the tourniquet produce a throbbing sensation.

Chemical Burns: wash all chemical burns—except those caused by phosphorus—with large quantities of running water. Immediately cover the area with loosely applied clean cloth. Don't use ointments, greases or powders in first-aid treatment of burns.

You can treat shock by keeping the patient flat and warm and reassuring him until a physician arrives.

Question and Answer

U. G.: My sister had a cut on her face. It healed with a very large, red scar. Will the scar recur if she has it cut out?

Answer: Certain persons have a tendency to form large scars of keloids following injury. Usually they do have a tendency to recur. However, X-ray treatment during the healing stage can prevent this to some degree.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trustworthy, agreeable, inoffensive mediocrity could become vice president.

That might be the result if the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement on how a vice president takes over from an ailing president becomes the rule — for lack of any other solution — for future presidents and vice presidents.

It's easy to see how future presidential candidates would want as their No. 2 man on the ticket an individual whose chief qualification for the job was not so much ability but trustworthiness and a gift for me-too-ism.

President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon — just because the Constitution doesn't spell out how a vice president takes over from a disabled president — sought to avoid possible future confusion by reaching this agreement:

If Eisenhower becomes unable to carry out his duties Nixon will decide whether he should take them over. Under the agreement Nixon can — but he's free to suit himself — consult others before deciding to become acting president.

If Eisenhower recovers he — not Nixon — will decide whether he's able to resume his job.

This kind of arrangement is all right for Eisenhower and Nixon. They trust each other. Eisenhower has confidence in Nixon's ability. So, apparently does the Republican party or it wouldn't have picked him twice for the vice presidency.

The two men feel they can, under their agreement, handle the problem of an Eisenhower disability. They have made it plain they intend it to apply only to them.

But it may well become an unwritten rule for the future unless Congress — by proposing a constitutional amendment — puts some other arrangement into national law. One future point in particular could stand clearing up in an amendment. It's this:

Should a vice president be free to decide when a president is too disabled to do his duties or should the decision be made by a group of government officials or in some other way?

The Eisenhower administration wants a constitutional amendment and has banged away at Congress to propose one.

But Congress has been beating its gums on this whole question and has done nothing. There's a good chance it will contirue doing nothing and that, without their intending it so, the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement will become a rule.

Suppose that, for lack of constitutional clarification, this agreement becomes the formula for the future. Then, with that in mind, this could happen at a political convention:

A man chosen to be a party's presidential candidate might not want as his vice-presidential running mate a man he feared might at some future time try to move in on him during a period of illness and take over the presidency.

Rather, he might want as his No. 2 man one whose chief qualification was trustworthiness or one who agreed with him but who might be far less qualified than an individual who, while trustworthy, did not see eye to eye with him on everything.

It's easy to see why: a vice president who disagreed with a president's programs might start to change them if, because of a presidential disability, he became acting president.

Junior Woman's Club Plans Square Dance for Project

April 17 was the date set by Circleville Junior Woman's Club for its spring project, a square dance, when the group met on Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Richand Penn, Springhollow Road. Mrs. Stanley Spring presided for the business session during which plans for the dance were made. Bill Burnside, Lancaster, has been engaged to serve as caller and provide the music for the dance which will be held at the Circle D Recreation Center. Mrs. William Speakman is chairman of arrangements for the dance.

For the program, the speaker was Mrs. Gordon Anderson who teaches Home Economics at Jackson Twp. School. Her subject was "Fashion Sewing For Women". Mrs. Anderson began her talk by saying that the home sewer must give special consideration to five things; fabric, pattern, measurements, fitting and construction.

She said "the four fabric types cotton, wool, synthetics and silk a firmly woven cotten is best for the use of the beginner." She also warned her listeners to make sure that material is san-forized, preshrunk, colorfast and that if it has a printed pattern that the pattern runs straight with the grain of the fabric.

In selecting patterns she advised the beginner to select a simple, easy to make pattern and to select a pattern not so much for its fashion value as for how well it will look on the person who will wear it.

Mrs. Anderson said, "fitting the garment is very important and should be done in three stages, first the paper fitting—pinning the pattern together and fitting it; second the unit fitting, completing various parts of the garment and pinning or basting them together for a fitting and finally the finished fit." She also explained how a pattern should be shortened, lengthened or altered in any other way.

She also listed several areas in construction which if given proper care will give the garment a professional look. Among these were the darts which she said should be made with the last three stitches on the very edge of the material and the threads tied and the collars and cuffs which should have corners and should have their seams trimmed and clipped on outside curves. She advised trimming only one seam allowance on a collar for a better finished garment.

She completed her talk by explaining the importance of easing parts of the garment and pressing each unit before joining it with another.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her co-hostesses who were Mrs. Richard Farmar and Mrs. Spring. In April the group will meet in the Reber Ave. home of Mrs. William Speakman.

Helen Hayes Due in TV Play Sunday, Avoiding Pomposity

NEW YORK (AP)—Why did Helen Hayes elect to present her Broadway hit "Mrs. McThing" to the television audience via Omnibus (NBC-TV) next Sunday rather than make it a week night spectactacular?

"A spectacular is just what I didn't want 'Mrs. McThing' to be," Miss Hayes said. "I didn't want it to get pompous."

Discussing her personal views of television in her dressing room during an off-stage pause in her present Broadway play "Time Remembered," she said: "Omnibus is as close to good theater as television has ever gotten. It's the one group of people working in television who don't patronize the viewer. I feel at home and happy there, and that's why I'm glad to be making my seventh appearance on the program."

Miss Hayes said she was delighted with the television adaptation of Mary Chase's comic fantasy by Walter Kerr, drama critic of the New York Herald Tribune and Omnibus drama consultant. The script, she feels, retains the play's quality of being "an American Peter Pan, a play that children as well as adults adore."

When television was in its infancy Miss Hayes was a constant viewer. "I think nearly everyone was," she said.

"That no longer is the case with me, and I think it's true of many other people. I've become more and more selective in what I watch. And I'm beginning to feel that many television programs think they have to condescend to the public taste as something different from a 'special' taste.

"I don't believe there is such a thing as a 'special' taste. My whole policy throughout my career has been that there is not."

Worker Run Over Twice by Truck

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Lady Luck was working with George Chabnell, 45, of Lucasville, Thursday as he was painting engineering markers on Ohio 75 near Pedro.

Chabnell, an inspector for the State Highway Department, was run over twice by a state highway truck. He suffered only severe bruises and cuts on his legs and elbows.

A fellow worker, Ernie Farrow of Chillicothe, was driving the truck. It hit Chabnell, knocking him down. A wheel of the truck rolled over both Chabnell's legs just below the knees before another worker yelled at the driver. Farrow then backed the truck up hurriedly and the vehicle again ran over Chabnell's legs.

What's Wrong with Economy?

Nearly All Eyes on Capitol For Spark for Recovery

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of articles surveying the current business recession in America.

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost every recession-troubled state, city and industry is looking hopefully to Washington for the actions and policies — and, chiefly, the spending—that will spark a business recovery.

This is true even in the many states and towns which have tackled their problems with do-it-yourself solutions like local tax cuts, public works and lures for new industry.

Associated Press reporters who visited corporation offices, union headquarters, relief lines, city halls and statehouses in their nationwide "How's Business?" survey heard one theme stressed almost to the point of monotony: "Our recovery depends on the federal government."

Most of the speakers hoped for the arrival of big defense contracts. Many wanted tax reduction and further easing of credit. Mining men called for tariff boosts on foreign metal. Railroads wanted higher freight rates. Washington alone, they all implied, has the final answers.

Some of the comments had political overtones, a majority of these being unfavorable to the Eisenhower administration.

In the proud, Republican, mostly Mormon state of Utah—which is now distributing food to the unemployed for the first time in memory—reporters heard grumbling about "Republican prosperity."

By contrast, some people said they were reassured by the President's recent words and actions, including his record peacetime spending budget. A North Carolina builder observed: "Before, Ike was going to balance the budget at all costs. Now he's committed to deficit spending, and that means inflation and a boom."

There weren't enough politically slanted comments, however, to be taken as evidence that the recession will hurt GOP candidates in the November congressional elections. Most interviewers ignored politics and talked about the immediate problem — finding and creating jobs.

The survey did indicate, however, that pressure is growing in harder hit areas for faster, more positive action than the administration so far has taken.

To date the federal stimulative measure, as listed by President Eisenhower in his recent chinsup economic statement, consist mainly of programs that were in progress or pending before the full impact of recession was felt.

They include the credit loosening steps begun by the Federal Reserve Board last October, the federal-state highway program, stepped up placement of military contracts, some liberalization of housing credit, a half-billion-dollar increase in civil works, a five-year post office building plan, and more lending to bolster foreign trade.

Without waiting for Uncle Sam, "Operation bootstrap" is being attempted on thousands of local fronts, public and private. These range from the major "crash programs" of public works of Vermont and Pennsylvania to the simple, hopeful device of Chipley, Ga.

These are some of the statewide efforts:

1. Highway and public construction speedups have been ordered in Missouri, Idaho and elsewhere.

2. Oregon, finding itself with a budget surplus, cut its income tax 20 per cent. Maryland is pondering the removal of some business taxes, but Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin has proposed a 50 per cent increase in income taxes.

3. Special sessions of state legislatures have been considered — but not yet called—in Vermont, Washington and other states to take up tax cuts, bigger unemployment compensation benefits and other remedies.

4. States which have authorized "development corporations," to help new businesses get financing, are using them to intensify the fight on unemployment. These include Arkansas, Vermont, Maine and Minnesota. The Connecticut Development Commission is focusing its efforts on getting the state a bigger share of missiles contracts.

San Simeon Castle To Be Opened

SAN SIMEON, Calif. (AP) — Fabulous San Simeon Castle, cresting a mountaintop like a white crown, prepared today to reveal its long-hidden splendors to all.

For decades it has been the guarded setting of many of the worlds great art treasures.

But its vaulted rooms will echo with the tramp of tourists' feet beginning May 17. By then it will be the property of the people of California, a monument to its builder, the late publisher William Randolph Hearst.

The Hearst family will turn over the twin-towered, 146-room castle, its untold wealth in statuary, paintings, tapestries and other art objects and 120 surrounding acres, to the state within the next few days. Between then and May 17 the state will complete arrangements for opening it to the public.

The great assembly room of the castle is 100 by 40 feet. There guests gathered in lavish settings before being served in the austere refectory over which gently sway the banners of 16th century Italian noble families. Great figures of government, entertainment and society were hosted there in regal manner by Hearst.

NYC Hearing Set On Discontinuance

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Utilities Commission today set a public hearing for April 24 on the request of the New York Central Railroad to discontinue its last passenger train service between Cincinnati and Toledo.

The railroad last Dec. 16 asked permission to discontinue two night trains because of a decrease in passenger business which made them unprofitable.

Ohio-Born Screen Writer Recalls Her Many Travels

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ketti Frings, screen writer who penned the Broadway smash "Look Homeward, Angel," lived in 14 different states before she was 14.

As a writer, she views that as bad—and yet good.

"I never had any real roots in a community," she observes. "I was born in Columbus, Ohio, but I also lived in Dayton, Cleveland, Portland, Ore., and all over, since my father was a salesman. I've often thought this was bad for me as a writer.

"The really great American writers have all had one place to write about, where they grew up. They were able to watch the growth and development of people they knew. I never could do that.

"Yet, I think my very rootlessness had a lot to do with my becoming a writer. My mother died when I was 11, and my father was away a great deal. I still remained very close to my father by writing him letters.

"I think that's something we lack nowadays. This is the great age of communication. We can pick up a phone and talk to anyone. But we're losing the art of letter writing, of communicating with each other with the written word.
